Waveland family blames mayor, board for difficulties

BY BENNIE SHALLBETTER
Staff Writer

James and Theresa Slade told Waveland city officials Wednesday night that without their permission to locate a home based business on their property, the family would be facing serious financial difficulty. The Slades want to locate a paint shop next to their home on St. Joseph St. The property is next door to Mediacom.

Mayor Tommy Longo broke a tie by voting to deny the recommendation by the Waveland Planning and Zoning Board which gave the Slades permission to re-zone their property to Industrial 1-2. Ward 2 Alderman Ricky Geoffrey and Ward 4 Alderman Santo Saucier voted in favor of the recommendation and Ward 1 Alderman Mark Thomas and Ward 3 Alderman Brian Schmidt voted to deny the commissioners' recommendation.

This was the second time that the Slades had been before the board, with the issue being shuffled back and forth between the Planning and Zoning Board and the Board of Aldermen. Aldermen put forth a recommendation that the issue be sent back to Planning and Zoning a third time, but the Slades asked them to make a decision.

James and Theresa Slade placed this sign in their front yard on St. Joseph St. in Waveland to express what they say is unfair treatment by the Board of Aldermen.

"It's easier to pass the buck back than to make a decision," said Theresa. She said the family needed to move forward. "I don't feel we are getting the same treatment as someone with a name or a pocketbook."

City attorney Zach Butterworth agreed that a decision needed to be made. "You have heard all the issues," he said.

Many of the Slades neighbors appeared at the meeting in support of the business. One of the neighbors said wanted to know more about the safety of chemicals that would be used at the paint shop. Slade said the shop would be closely monitored by environmental agencies.

Aldermen expressed concern over the possibility of the Slades selling the property leaving them with the problem of regulating a new business in the re-zoned area.

Seal to resign from board

Fellow board members had just deadlocked on voting him out as president

BY JOHN WATERMAN
Staff Writer

Two members of the Hancock County Board of Education voted to hold an election for a temporary president Thursday, based on current President Larry Seal's pending charges for selling insurance under false pretenses. Seal was not present at the meeting.

The motion was brought to the table by former board president Peggy Ladner, and seconded by Packer Ladner.

"We've got a contract out there that hasn't been signed by a president. We need to elect a new president."

The motion failed with a 2-2 vote, with Morgan Ladner and Rose Acker voting against holding an election.

The contract in question was a two-year extension for the services of Moran Hauling, Inc. Since the firm is still under contract, Acker and Morgan Ladner felt that there was no urgency with that issue.

Tugboat, crew play critical role in rocket-engine tests

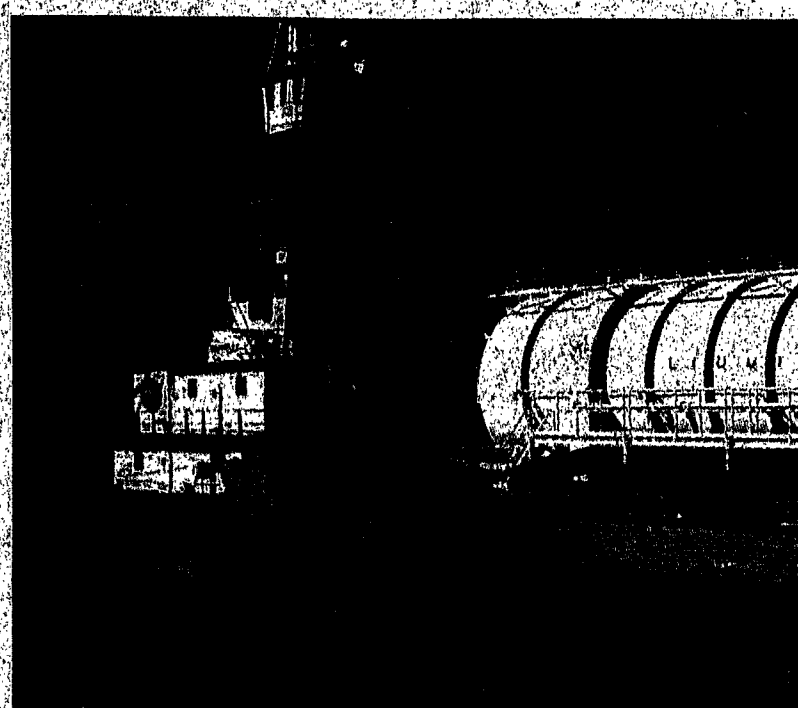

Clermont II vital for fuel transport

THE SEA COAST ECHO
Most people probably don't think about tugboats and barges when they experience the shake, rattle and roar of a Space Shuttle Main Engine (SSME) test at NASA's Stennis Space Center (SSC). But behind the scenes, Capt. Rodrick "Rocky" Pullman and the crew of the NASA tugboat Clermont II play a critical role. Without them, there's no engine test — because without them, there's no fuel.

Before each test, Pullman, Tugboat Pilot Grover "Shu-Shu" Bennett, Marine Maintenance Technician Dwight Strahan and a general

Each time an SSME is test-fired for the 812 minutes it takes to propel the Space Shuttle to low-Earth orbit, it consumes 132,000 gallons of liquid hydrogen and 49,000 gallons of liquid oxygen.

The late William Lucia's widow Peggy last week finally received three of the medals he had earned while serving in the U.S. Navy during World War II.

WWII vet's widow finally gets his medals

BY GEOFF BELCHER
News Editor

Nearly six months after his death and 60 years after he earned them, William "Bill" Lucia has received his medals from World War II.

"I'm just glad he finally got 'em," his widow, Peggy Lucia, said last week at her Bay St. Louis home.

Born in 1910, Bill was still living in Milton, Vt. in February, 1944 when he joined the U.S. Navy. A few months later, Peggy said, he was among the aircraft carrier crew that fished a young pilot out of the Pacific after his fighter plane was shot out of the sky. That man's name was George Herbert Walker Bush, who later became the 41st president of the United States, and the father of the 43rd president.

Only a few of Bill's medals actually came last week, Peggy said, his American Campaign, WWII Victory and U.S. Navy Honorable Discharge medals. After going through six months of going through mountains of paperwork and calling all over the country, she said, she had gotten nowhere. After she called U.S. Sen. Trent Lott's office, the medals came shortly thereafter.

"Bill's also supposed to get a Purple Heart and a Medal of Honor," she said, but added that she's pleased that the other three came.

Bill first came to the Coast with the Seabees in 1944 during World War II. He stayed, but eventually lost contact with his ex-wife and their three children, son Sonny and daughters Barbara and Alberta. He was reunited with Sonny in 2002.

Though the two parted on amicable terms, Sonny said at the time, "We live a long ways away." Nearly 1,600 miles away, in fact, Sonny and his wife Pat, along with her brother Bill McPhee, left their home in Orange, Mass., about 75 miles west of Boston, and traveled 1,594 miles to meet with Bill at his home.

Sonny had kept in touch with his sisters, who now live in nearby Maynard, Mass., but had lost all contact with his father until 1994. That's when Peggy — almost 40 years Bill's junior — found Sonny through directory assistance. The family had kept in touch ever since by telephone, but Pat Lucia finally urged her husband to make the trip.

Peggy and Bill were actually featured on the Sally Jesse Raphael show in 1998, on a segment entitled "Opposites Attract."

"The only problem I have with my wife," Lucia said, "is that she's too tall. I have to get on a step-ladder to kiss her. And at 92, I'm too old to carry around a step-ladder."

Bill died on Aug. 22, 2004. Peggy's still hoping to have military honors for him.

Pass considers $2M bond issue

BY JOHN WATERMAN
Staff Writer

The Pass Christian Board of Aldermen has had plans to repair 30 of the city's most decrepit roads since December of 2003.

Now, with the help of $2 million worth of Tax Increment Financing (TIF) bonds the city is closer than ever to beginning construction.

TIF bonds, also known as self-financing bonds, can be financed without taxpayer approval in most states, including Mississippi. The bonds are called self-financing, because ideally, the taxes collected on the difference between the tax value of the property prior to improvement versus the tax value after improvement are to be used to pay off the bonds.

In the case of Pass Christian, the money was borrowed against the real and personal property and sales tax of the new Super Wal-Mart, according to Pass Alderman Donald Moore and City Attorney Malcolm Jones.

The city plans to spend over $1 million of the money on street repair. Moore said there were also plans to build a new city barn, which he described as being in deplorable condition. Both of these projects would be financed entirely by the TIF bonds.

"No will will have to pay a dime more in taxes," Moore said.

Alderman Chip McDermott was equally enthusiastic to see the roadwork begin. He said that some of his constituents had complained that they had not yet seen any improvements from the supercenter.

"They're about to see what the benefits of Wal-Mart really are," McDermott said.

Both Moore and McDermott said Pass Christian had never financed a roadwork project of this magnitude on its own. McDermott said that Harrison County had been footing the bill for roadwork since the advent of gaming, had contributed greatly to the county's growth.

McDermott the Alderman each picked the most damaged roads from their respective wards. He said that the board was in agreement about the streets, and that reconstruction should start by the end of the month.

"We all put a bunch of time into it more than a year ago. We've all got a bunch of streets picked out. We're ready," Moore said.

"The streets that don't need any foundation work are going to go right off the bat," McDermott said.

Some streets, like Shadow Lawn and Brown Aves. require major reconstruction and overlay. These city still needs to take construction bids on these larger projects.

One of the streets on the list, Oakland Ave., had already been repaired by Harrison County. If there is any money left over from the current list, Moore said the city might be able to consider repairing additional streets.

Rash of burglaries, break-ins prompts Bay group to form community watch

BY GEOFF BELCHER
News Editor

Bay St. Louis used to be a sleepy little town, a quiet bedroom/retirement community where people went to bed without locking their doors at night. Those days have passed.

Figures from the Mississippi Coast Crime Commission indicate that there was a 43 percent increase in arrests in Bay St. Louis alone from 2002 to 2003, the last year for which figures are available. Waveland's figures are up slightly as well, with 773 arrests reported in 2002 and 887 reported in 2003.

"We've not had a really major crime wave," Bay St. Louis Police Chief Frank McNeil said Friday, "but within the past month or so," we've received more than normal reports of automobiles being broken into.

Fortunately, McNeil said, the arrest of two suspects in the car break-ins seems to have ended that spree: "We have arrested people in connection with the auto burglaries, and since we caught them, we have not had any more problems."

Still, McNeil said, there have been other issues city-wide. Da Beach House on Beach Blvd., for instance, was burglarized twice, he said, and it appears that someone tried to break in a third time, but ran off before he was successful.

Todd and Colleen Read, owners of Da Beach House, have now installed a sophisticated alarm system to help deter any more problems, but Colleen said that kind of expense can be tough on a small business.

"We need to raise our consiousness as a community to be more aware of who's out there," she said. "If you see something wrong and you have the ability to fix it, then you have that responsibility."

"We have a great police force. These guys are here when you need them, but they can't be everywhere at once and they can't see everything."

"If you hear a dog barking, go out and check it. Somebody might be breaking into the house next door. If you see somebody messing around with a car at night, call the police."

The Reads and several other residents in the area have formed a community watch group to help insure there are no more problems.

McNeil said that simple common sense can often be the best crime deterrent.

"Better than half of the vehicles that were burglarized were left locked ...," he said. "Let's ask the citizens to be aware, to make an effort to secure their vehicles and not to leave anything like purses or weapons overnight."

McNeil said he urges everyone to be diligent and to report any suspicious activities to the police.

The Reads concur.

"It's not that we're trying to instill fear into the county," Colleen said. "We're just trying to make people aware it's happening, but we can fix it. We can make it better. We can send a message that this sort of thing won't be tolerated, and that's going to make Bay St. Louis and Hancock County great."

Man accused of stealing from church

BY ELLIS C. CUEVAS
Publisher Emeritus

A Gulfport resident was arrested on Thursday and charged with allegedly taking money from a church collection box, according to Sheriff Steve Garber.

Investigator Tom Roan said, "Tommy Lea, 34, of Gulfport, was arrested Thursday and charged with grand larceny in connection with church monies."

"When Lea was apprehended he was alleged to have some of the funds taken from a St. Ann Catholic Church's collection box," Roan added.

"We were notified by Father Joseph Tran that the box had been robbed several times. Lea was arrested after the box was baited with cash and officers were watching as he allegedly stole the money," Roan reported.

Lea was said to have been a groundskeeper at the church since December.

Roan said it was unknown as to how much cash was taken all together, because of the number of times money had been stolen from the box.

Hancock Deputies Charles LaFontaine and Jody Richardson assisted in making the arrest.

Woman charged with possession

BY ELLIS C. CUEVAS
Publisher Emeritus

A Shoreline Park woman was arrested Thursday for possession with intent to deliver (marijuana), Sheriff Steve Garber reports.

Narcotics Division director Major Matt Karl said, "Nisha Hide, 27, First Avenue, Shoreline Park, was arrested by agents at her residence following a search that revealed approximately three ounces of marijuana, several scales, cash and paraphernalia."

Hide was charged with the alleged possession of a controlled substance with intent to deliver, Karl said, adding, "We received information that Hide was dealing and had marijuana, scales, etc. at the residence."

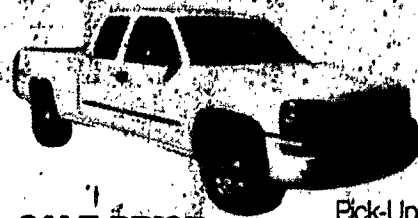

"Along with Abe Long of CNET, who is in charge of the case, we visited Hide on a 'Knock and Talk' call mid-afternoon Thursday. She was very cooperative and said she had some marijuana and gave permission for us to search her residence. We discovered hundreds of dollars, approximately three ounces of marijuana, several scales and paraphernalia," Karl stated.

In addition to Long and Karl, Agents Chris Russell and Clifton (Bubba) Malley participated in the arrest.

Hide's bond was set at $10,000 at the Hancock County Criminal Justice Facility, Karl said.

Cuevas' Quotes

by Ellis C. Cuevas
Publisher Emeritus

Litter, litter and more litter!

It is now that time of year when folks have to begin thinking about filing their federal and state income tax reports.

This is a chore many of us do not particularly like to do, but it is one of which needs to be done by April 15th of each year.

The Hancock County Library System which includes the Bay St. Louis, Waveland, Kiln and Pearlinton Libraries are now in the process of receiving federal and state tax forms. For as long as I can remember, the U.S. Postal Department has the supplies of forms, but times and procedures have changed.

Once again AARP Tax Aides are scheduled for free assistance at the Bay St. Louis-Hancock County Library every Tuesday and Saturday, 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. beginning Feb. 1. Tax assistance will be available at the Kiln Library every Thursday, 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. beginning Feb. 3.

One of the popular ways of filing income taxes is Electronic filing, and this will be available both Bay and Kiln Libraries.

For information on tax forms available, call the Easy Excess Line at 467-5282, extension 13.

For peace of mind, you may want to file your taxes early.

Each year out state, county and cities spend thousands and thousands of dollars of tax payers money trying to keep litter off our highways and roadways.

It seems that it is an endless battle, one that will never be won, yet, more and more folks are becoming concerned about the blight litter gives our community.

At the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce's last Beautification Committee meeting, Glenn Dore, better known as "Boss Hog," told the group how his crew of Hancock inmates collect bag after bag of litter from county roadways.

Just to give you an idea, Boss Hog uses two inmates, on a Monday and Wednesday they collected 38 bags of litter each day and on a Tuesday 41 bags. Now, these are large trash bags. The real sad part about the operation is that he said his crew could come back within a few days and collect almost the same amount from the same area covered a few days before.

In Bay St. Louis, for instance, city workers can be seen almost every day collecting litter from the highway and roadways.

I do have a feeling that if it could be worked out some way, with citations issued and "Community Service" sentencing on some folks would sure change the attitude of many.

In legislative action last week ...

BY REPS. SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE J.P. COMPRETTE and JESSICA UPSHAW

Hundreds of proposals ranging from lifting the waiting period to get married, creating a state lottery, tightening up laws on drinking and driving, requiring a C-average to play high school sports and to restoring Medicaid coverage to those dropped from the rolls have been lined up for debate during the 2005 legislative session.

Jan. 17 was the deadline for members of the House and Senate to introduce their bills. Our committees now have until Feb. 1 to look over these proposals and see which ones pass muster to send before the full House of Representatives.

The wide range of bills provided most of the buzz in the State Capitol during this third week of the '05 session. During an average 90-day session we see upwards of 3,000 bills introduced, yet only about one-tenth of those make it to the lawbooks, including appropriation bills for state agencies.

In House floor action this week, we passed HB 679 to allow military personnel and their dependents to renew driver's licenses by mail or online and HB 622 dedicating U.S. 80 from border to border to the almost 30,000 Mississippians who fought in the Korean War. There were 409 deaths of state residents in that war. Both bills had previously passed the House Transportation Committee.

The full House also moved to strengthen penalties for price gouging in times of emergencies. It provides that the price for all goods and services sold within the state must not exceed that normally charged before the emergency declaration.

Any cost exceeding by $50 the price normally received constitutes a felony offense and could bring a jail sentence of up to five years and a fine up to $5,000. The bill came from a Tupelo hearing on price gouging for gasoline. It allows intervention by the state attorney general office on determining gouging. The bill arose from the House Conservation Committee.

In another floor vote, the House passed HB 1102 to require disclosure from groups that spend money on campaign advertising. The bill also strengthens the reporting of loans by state candidates, improves disclosure of contributions made by one political committee to another political committee and requires all candidates who raise more than $75,000 to submit campaign finance reports in a searchable electronic format for easier public access. Groups like the Mississippi Press Association, the Mississippi Center for Freedom of Information, and Common Cause have advocated passage of such a law.

State tourism officials are backing HB 886 to eliminate the three-day waiting period required for couples wanting to marry. The law is causing Mississippi to miss out on so-called "destination weddings" that bring an estimated $20,000 economic impact per ceremony.

If passed, backers say out-of-state couples would come here to get married in tourism destination spots such as Natchez and the Gulf Coast. A new law could also convince more Mississippi couples to marry here. It was noted that most neighboring states long ago eliminated the marriage waiting period.

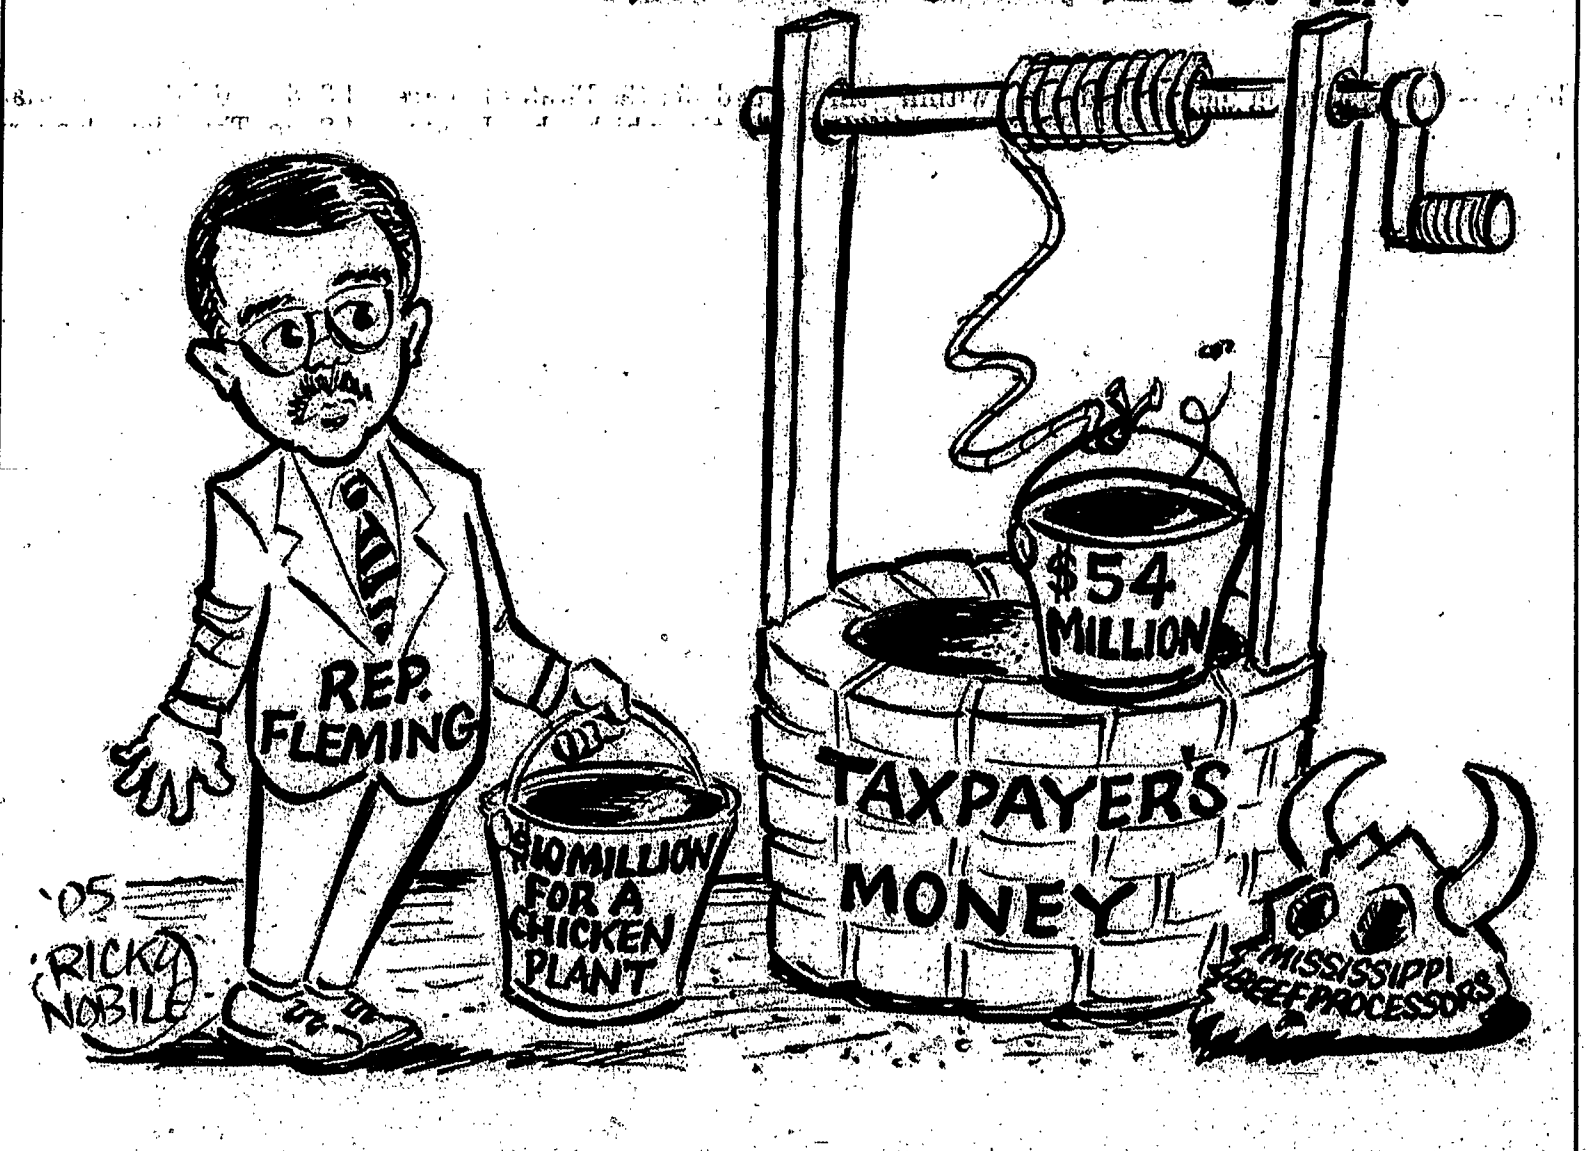

The House Tourism Committee also heard a report that some 31 million tourists spent $6.1 billion while visiting the state last year.

They are staying longer and spending more than in the past, the report said. Also, more cities in the state are applying to become "certified retirement communities."

The House Wildlife, Fisheries and Parks Committee heard from state wildlife officials that an estimated 350,000 deer have been harvested during the recent season by some 200,000 hunters. No chronic wasting disease cases have been seen. It's been a "less than great" duck hunting

Action on MS Senate Bill 2325

BY GOV. HALEY BARBOUR

Facing an unprecedented budget crisis, a main goal for the 2005 Legislative Session must be to rebalance Mississippi's budget and get state spending back in line with state revenue; however, the first bill of the Session to reach my desk for consideration this year is one authorizing a deficit appropriation. I don't want this to mislead the public.

SB 2325 addresses the needs of our veteran nursing homes. The bill appropriates funding to pay debts from FY 03, FY 04, and to operate the agency for the rest of FY 05. This funding is important.

Even more important and critical to my support for this bill is the strong assurance I have received from Flick Ash, Chairman of the Veterans Affairs Board, and legislative leaders that spending at the veterans nursing homes has been brought under control and savings are being instituted to prevent such a deficit in the future.

State taxpayers are entitled to know this deficit appropriation is not business as usual. It is the first step toward making the savings needed to operate this excellent program on a financially sound and substantial cost basis.

The deadline for action on SB 2325 is today, but I am in Washington, D.C. today, representing the State of Mississippi at the President's Inauguration. I have asked Lt. Governor Tuck, who is designated by statute as the acting Governor in my absence, to sign the bill today (January 20) and she has graciously agreed.

Harrison Central hands Bay High first loss 41-37

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II
Staff Writer

If a fan came into the gym at Bay High on Friday night to see a good game, what they got was a tremendous defensive game by both teams. Of the estimated 1,100 fans in the Wilmer Seymour Gymnasium on Friday, all 1,100 of them left the arena satisfied that they got their money's worth.

It was a game of runs. It was a game of defense. It was a game that went down to the wire.

However, the Bay High Lady Tigers (20-1, 8-0) suffered their first defeat of the season when the Harrison Central Lady Red Rebels scored a 41-37 victory at the Wilmer Seymour Gymnasium on Friday, January 21st.

Harrison Central, the largest school in the state and winner of 12 state titles, used aggressive defense to get Bay High out of their game.

Bay High head coach Debbie Triplett stated, "Give the credit to Harrison Central and their defense. Their pressure on defense took us out of our game. We did not shoot well at all during the game. And, when we did have some open shots we seemed to rush them. But, I thought we played good defense against Harrison Central, as well. We were able to keep their big girls from scoring in the paint."

The Lady Tigers shot 9-for-43 for the game which comes out to right at 20% from the floor. Defensively, the Lady Tigers forced 23 turnovers.

Harrison Central took a 12-5 lead after the first period of play and extended their lead to 27-17 by half-time. One could see, that Bay High was in a shooting slump but their defense also kept the Lady Red Rebels from exploding, as well.

In the second half, though, Bay High tightened their defensive pressure and began to get a little more comfortable in their shooting.

The Lady Tigers held Harrison Central to just 5 points in the third period. Harrison Central scored the first three points of the third period. But with 2:48 left, Tamara Reed sank a three-pointer that ignited the Lady Tigers. Destiny Porter followed that with a bucket to make the score 30-22.

In the final 25 seconds of the third period, Kendra

Reed and Tamara Reed each sank a trey to cut the lead to 32-28 heading into the final stanza.

The tension in the air was thick as the fourth period began. Porter converted on an old-fashioned three-point play with 6:09 left to bring Bay High to within one at 32-31.

Kendra Reed tied the game at 34-34 with her bucket at the 2:38 mark. Harrison Central's Carrie Dawson answered with an old-fashioned trey with 1:23 left to put HCHS up 37-34.

Less than :20 seconds later, a deafening roar filled the gym when Crystal Skretching answered with a three-pointer of her own to tie the score at 37-37.

Shanea Cotton, the 6-3 center for Harrison Central, scored a bucket to put her team up 39-37 with :19 left. Cotton was held to just four points in the game which was well off her average of 21 points.

Bay High was unable to convert on a shot in the waning seconds which sealed the game for Harrison Central.

Kendra Reed led Bay High with 15 points followed by Destiny Porter with 12 points. Carrie Dawson led Harrison Central with 17 points.

In boys action, the Red Rebels held on for a 51-43 win. The Tigers (11-12, 6-2) pulled to within three points during the final period with about four minutes remaining; however, they were unable to capitalize on possessions late, missed some key offensive rebounds and could not convert at the free throw line.

Bay High head coach Alan Lumpkin stated, "The offensive boards have been a problem for us all year. We are getting better but we are still not there in that aspect of the game. We did protect the ball better this game. The effort and intensity was there and I was proud of that. We were missing two starters tonight but we had some younger players step up for us. Brent Robinson, a sophomore, started at point and lead us in scoring. Robert Labat and Jason Sims each had good games rebounding for us."

Harrison Central led 16-8 after the first period and extended that to 22-15 at halftime. In the second half, the Tigers narrowed the gap to 34-30 by the end of third period.

Brent Robinson scored 16 points for Bay High followed by Braxton Rockwell with 15 points. Terrance Hall led Harrison Central with 17 points followed by Jerome Thompson with 16 points.

The Bay High Tigers will travel to Vancleave on Tuesday night for a division game with the Bulldogs before coming back home on Friday against Gautier.

The St. Stanislaus Rock-a-chaws (19-4, 9-0) defeated the D'Iberville Warriors 48-39 in Division 8-4A action.

The Rocks enjoyed a 22-11 halftime advantage over the Warriors.

SSC head coach Jay Ladner commented, "I am a little disappointed in our defensive effort tonight, especially in the second half. We did not play with a lot of intensity. We did just enough to win."

Mike Rice led the Rocks with 23 points and 7 boards followed by Ludovic Dovonu with 8 points. Ramsey Shawa added 7 points and 8 rebounds while Cameron Hardin dished out 5 assists.

The Rocks are off Tuesday night and will host Pass Christian on Friday evening.

In high school basketball action on Thursday, January 20th, the Pass Christian Pirates (13-6, 6-2) dealt the Vancleave Bulldogs a 69-65 loss.

Armond Porter scored four points in the final 30 seconds for the Pirates to force a tie which the Pirates eventually broke and claimed the win. Porter ended the game with 25 points.

Porter's four points came off one play. He nailed a three-pointer and was fouled. Porter converted on the free throw to tie the game at 65-65.

Chuckie Woods scored 11 points for Pass Christian who are tied for second with Bay High in Division 8-4A.

The Lady Pirates pulled out a 64-59 win over the Lady Bulldogs on Thursday. Ishanti Saucier scored 21 points to lead the Lady Pirates. Nicole Wittmann added 13 points and 6 rebounds while Hillary Dedeaux chipped in 10 points and 8 boards.

On Tuesday, January 18th, the Bay High Lady Tigers defeated East Central 71-9. Kendra Reed scored 21 points followed by Sara Gilmore with 17 points and Whitney Gladney added 11 points.

The Bay High boys team recorded a 68-31 win over the Hornets. Braxton Rockwell led the Tigers with 22 points followed by Joseph Yates and George Easley with 10 points each.

The St. Stanislaus Rock-a-chaws scored a 67-47 win over Vancleave on Tuesday evening. Michael Cure scored 15 points to lead SSC followed by Owen McNally and Mike Rice with 13 points each and Derrick Willis added 11 points.

The Pass Christian Pirates added a 90-61 victory over D'Iberville to their record on Tuesday. Brandon Miller had a double-double with 29 points and 13 rebounds followed by Armad Bailey with 17 and Armond Porter with 15 points.

The Hancock Lady Hawks scored two victories earlier in the week. On Saturday, January 15th, the Lady Hawks scored a 45-32 win over the Lady Greyhounds to avenge an early season loss.

Ashley Boehnel scored 27 points to lead Hancock against Ocean Springs.

On Tuesday evening, the Lady Hawks (18-5, 4-0) completed the season sweep of Hattiesburg with an 85-51 win. Erica Moran claimed high scoring honors with 28 points followed by Boehnel with 22 points. Jessica Dubuison added 10 points win the win.

In high school soccer action, the Bay High Lady Tigers (6-3, 4-3) defeated Pass Christian 4-2 on Thursday, January 20th. Abby Johnson scored twice for Bay High while Hannah Johnson and Hillary Ladner each added a goal.

The St. Stanislaus Rock-a-chaws defeated Pass Christian 9-1 on Friday, January 21st. The Pirates scored first on a penalty kick early in the game. Scoring details of the game were unavailable at press time.

The OLA junior high soccer team remained undefeated at 5-04 with a 2-2 tie against St. Scholastica on January 19th.

Nikki Wild scored both goals scored both goals for the Crescents and Jennifer Lolacano added both assists.

The budget for fiscal 2006 beginning July 1 continued to draw much scrutiny this week with several groups gathering to hear from fiscal experts. We face one of our tightest budget years in the state's history, and we must find funds not only for the next year but also extra monies for the current FY 2005.

Other issues headed for debate this year include overhauling the state's juvenile training facilities; how to equitably fund the state's 152 public school districts; requiring proof of insurance before obtaining a driver's license or car tag; requiring only a simple majority to pass school bond issues; toll roads; and requiring the use of helmets by children less than 16 while operating all-terrain vehicles.

Planning/Zoning woes continue

BY BENNIE
SHALLBETTER
Staff Writer

Despite the best efforts of both the Board of Supervisors and the County Planning and Zoning Board a quick and easy resolution to the county's zoning woes does not appear to be forthcoming in the foreseeable future. After hours of debate on Thursday the Planning Board had still not resolved the issue of substandard building lots.

Many county neighborhoods were platted with 50 and 60 foot lots, but many of the lots were rendered unbuildable by a 1997 zoning change that required a 75 foot frontage in R-1 areas. The ordinance was only recently enforced.

On Thursday, Commissioner Lynn Bell suggested that building official Mickey Lagasse look into a possible re-zoning of at least a part of the Riverview neighborhood. The new classification would allow substandard lots less than 75 feet. The board voted to allow Lagasse to examine the issue.

But that doesn't solve the problem for the other unfortunate buyers who purchased lots in neighborhoods like Jordan River Estates or other R-1 areas, from Realtors who say they were unaware of the zoning regulation. At this point, those cases will still be resolved on a case to case basis, with commissioners unable to come up with a viable solution.

Suggestions have been special zoning classifications for 50 and 60 foot lots or a cutoff date of December 31, 2004 for appeals, allowing those buyers caught unaware to build.

Upholding the current 75 foot frontage requirement was also suggested.

Closing attorney Joe Kelly appeared before the board to personally plead the cases of several buyers for whom he said he was the closing attorney. Kelly said he too was unaware of the zoning regulation until recently. Kelly said he had worked since then to educate both area Realtors and closing attorneys on the zoning regulation.

"You would have to live under a rock not to know about the regulation now," Kelly said. He told commissioners that because of seminars held over the last few months, that there should be no excuse for a Realtor or closing attorney to be unaware of the 75 foot frontage requirement. "I don't think you will continue to see this problem," Kelly said.

He appealed to commissioners to give property owners with pending cases permission to build. Earlier, Supervisors said they would postpone two scheduled appeals to give Planning Commissioners time to make a decision for a county-wide solution.

Commissioners voted three to one against a request by Russell Elliot and Kirk Ladner, with the Grace A. Ortte Trust, for a zoning change for a Casino Special Use District for property located at the foot of Pointset Ave. in Clermont Harbor. The men had proposed a 14 story, two-tower hotel and casino project for that location.

Commissioner Ray Ladner, Alan Dedeaux and Mark Cumella voted against the proposal saying it was not suited for the area. Ray Ladner made the motion to deny the request saying he would go along with the wishes of the majority of residents in the area, who were not in favor of the project. C.A. Russ was absent from the meeting. Kirk Ladner reminded commissioners that zoning regulations would still allow him to build a hotel at the location.

County closes equine training track at arena

BY BENNIE
SHALLBETTER
Staff Writer

Supervisors ordered Hancock County Equine Center and Livestock Arena manager Wade Ladner to immediately close the equine training track until further notice. Ladner said the track had holes and was unsafe. Road manager Roger Ladner said that to correct the problem the entire track would have to be dug out to a depth of about 4 to 5 feet and reconstructed.

In other business:
• Building official Mickey Lagasse said building permits were once again being issued in Jordan River Shores. The Department of Environmental Quality has authorized, Tessi, the company providing sewer service to the area to expand its service, Lagasse said. A moratorium on building had been in effect in the area.

Supervisors voted to uphold a decision by the Planning and Zoning Board to deny a variance to a resident of Janelle Dr. in Jordan River Estates. The property owner wanted to add a addition that would bring their home within three feet of their sideyard property line. Zoning requires a 10 foot sideyard. Two close neighbors opposed the addition.

State press to 'roast' Barbour in Feb.

THE SEA COAST ECHO

The Mississippi Press Association Education Foundation annually sponsors a benefit "roast" of a well-known Mississippian to raise funds to provide journalism scholarships and internships for some of the state's best and brightest students.

Gov. Haley Barbour has agreed to be the main course for the 2005 Celebrity Roast. It will be held Saturday, Feb. 5, at the Hilton Hotel in Jackson. The reception will begin at 6 p.m. with the dinner beginning at 7 p.m. Roasters will include State Auditor Phil Bryant, Clarion-Ledger editorial cartoonist Marshall Ramsey, State Representative Steve Holland, and other surprise speakers. Clarion-Ledger perspective editor Sid Salter will again serve as roast master this year.

Over the last 15 years, the roast event has marked one evening each year when the state's politicians and the press come together for a common goal to advance journalism education.

Over $75,000 in scholarship funds has been raised over the last decade from roasting Republicans and Democrats, liberals and conservatives, and Mississippians white, black and red in an effort to help deserving young Mississippians with financial aid as they pursue journalism degrees at state universities and colleges. MPAEF also offers up to 21 internships annually to state journalism students for hands-on experience at member newspapers.

In addition, the Foundation has made substantial cash grants for services and equipment at Mississippi higher education institutions including Mississippi State, the University of Southern Mississippi, Delta State University, Jackson State University, Alcorn State University, and several community colleges.

The MPA roasts are about having a few laughs, but the press and the politicians are serious about raising money for the students. The public is invited to attend the 2005 roast on Feb. 5. Tickets are $75 each or $500 for a table of eight.

For more information or to purchase tickets, contact MPA Office Manager Kimberly Haydu at khaydu@mspress.org or (601) 981-3060.

Chevron Texaco plans to file for LNG facility

PASCAGOULA, Miss. (AP) ChevronTexaco plans to pre-file papers later this month with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission to locate a liquefied natural gas plant at its Pascagoula refinery.

The company announced plans on Nov. 18 to build and operate an LNG regasification facility.

ChevronTexaco spokesman Steve Renfro said pre-filing is one of several steps in the permitting process for the LNG facility. Renfro said the process could take all of this year and part of 2006.

Renfro and Refinery Manager Roland Kell spoke to business leaders at a local chamber of commerce luncheon here Tuesday.

The new plant would receive and temporarily store liquefied natural gas, then turn it back into a vapor. The facility would have storage tanks, an unloading dock and other equipment.

Kell said the United States in the future will have to import liquefied natural gas. He said the LNG regasification process "is absolutely safe and a proven technology."

Kell said ChevronTexaco announced plans for the facility early to address the concerns and fears of area residents. He said refinery officials would be available to talk with local residents and organizations about the proposed operation and safety issues.

"The regasification project is four to five years down the road," he said. "We want to deal with the public's concerns at this stage of the project. LNG is a long-term project."

The proposed LNG facility is joint project between the refinery and ChevronTexaco Global Gas, the company's natural gas marketing division.

The proposed site will be located at the refinery's crude oil off-loading facilities on Bayou Casotte, which is south of the Port of Pascagoula's Bayou Casotte facilities.

It is north of the site of the proposed Gulf LNG Energy regasification facility that would be located on state-owned land at the mouth of Bayou Casotte. The property is leased from the state by the port, which is subleasing the 40-acre site to Gulf LNG.

Seven teachers from Bay Catholic Elementary recently attended the Johannes Hofinger Conference in New Orleans. The Hofinger Conference is an annual event of prayer, learning, and sharing offered by the Office of Religious Education, Archdiocese of New Orleans, and attended by religious educators. This year's conference theme was "Grasped by the Hand." Pictured (l-r) are: Christy Carter, Joan Marcello (background), Kay Gleber, Connie Heltzman, Shannon Collins, Amy Seay, and Betsy Gagnier.

Tugboat

helper are responsible for navigating the barges of super-cool liquid hydrogen and liquid oxygen through the 71/2-mile, 16-foot-deep canal system at SSC. Connected to the Pearl River, the canals are kept at a constant level by a lock system, spillway and replenishment pumps.

The barges are moored to docks at the test stands, then the fuel is pumped from the barges into run tanks mounted on the stands. And we're talking about a lot of fuel. Each time an SSME is test-fired for the 812 minutes it takes to propel the Space Shuttle from liftoff to low-Earth orbit, it consumes 132,000 gallons of liquid hydrogen and 49,000 gallons of liquid oxygen.

In addition, the tugboat and its crew provide fuel for the certification of the RS-68 engines that power the Delta IV rockets to space.

SSC tests and proves flight-worthy every SSME as part of NASA's plan to safely return the Space Shuttle to flight following the loss of Space Shuttle Columbia in 2003. That plan plays a key role in NASA's Vision for Space Exploration, which includes completing the International Space Station and then returning to the Moon, and forging on to Mars and worlds beyond.

Since Pullman was hired as captain in February 1979, he and the crew of the Clermont II have made more than 7,000 fuel barge moves, about 900 of those offsite — usually to New Orleans, almost five hours one way. They've also made more than 1,000 work-barge moves and nearly 200 weather-buoy moves. That's a total of almost 8,500 barge moves — without a major accident or loss of a barge.

"For more than 25 years, the efforts of Rocky Pullman and the crew of the Clermont II have played a significant role in the successful engine testing at NASA's Stennis Space Center," said Miguel Rodriguez, director of the SSC Propulsion Test Directorate. "Without those barges, we can't test. The crew's outstanding safety record is a tribute to their high degree of professionalism and expertise."

About the only thing that prevents the Clermont II from pushing a barge when it's supposed to is a matter of safety: When the wind blows in excess of 30 mph, it doesn't move. If the tug is under way and the wind picks up, Pullman immediately steers for safe harbor. "When the wind's blowing and the tank on the barge is full, you have to be at the top of your game to safely maneuver the vessel," Pullman said.

Fog can be a challenge, too, but that's why there's radar on top of the upper pilot-house, the tallest point of the boat. "We've left Air Products [a fuel supplier near NASA's Michoud Assembly Facility in New Orleans] and not seen the barge until we get back to Stennis," Pullman said.

The barges — attached to the bow of the 65-foot-long tug with steel cables — are no lightweights. Each weighs 700-800 tons fully loaded, and are almost constantly being refilled, depending on the SSME testing schedule. That schedule can require more than 100 total truckloads of fuel a week and as many as seven barge moves in a day.

One liquid oxygen barge holds about 100,000 gallons, or 18-20 truckloads, and one liquid hydrogen barge holds about 270,000 gallons, or about 15 truckloads. The nine technicians and supervisor of the Cryogenic Propellant Storage Facility at SSC make sure the fuels are safely transferred to the barges, and from the barges to the test stands. Liquid oxygen is transferred directly from the trucks to the barges, but the liquid hydrogen goes from the trucks to a 600,000-gallon storage sphere, then to the barges.

Pullman, Bennett and Strahan, who all work in the Marine Department of Mississippi Space Services (MSS) test support group, usually "borrow" a general helper from another crew. On any given barge-move day, the crew's fourth hand could be Michael Haralson from the test composite crew, Ike Stewart from the component shop, Ross Spence from the vehicle equipment maintenance shop or heavy equipment operator Clifford Stockstill.

Their teamwork and get-the-job-done work ethic don't go unnoticed. "Rocky and crew make my job easy," said David Alston, MSS manager over Marine Operations. "They are highly responsive to SSC customers and are totally committed to customer satisfaction. They keep the tugboat in a high state of readiness and have an exemplary record of moving barges on schedule."

To be a member of the Clermont II crew it takes, among other things, enough mechanical aptitude to maintain a 620-horsepower diesel engine, constant safety awareness and the willingness to work in the worst kinds of weather. That work can include operating the canal locks and bridge, the lock gates and canal replenishment pumps. The engine room needs constant maintenance, as does equipment like cables and winches.

The Clermont II, captain and crew must be prepared to fill the critical role of fuel supply for SSME test-firing as long as the Space Shuttle flies — which will be when construction of the International Space Station is complete, around the end of the decade. "The boat has to be maintained in a constantly ready state, and we have to be ready at any moment," Pullman said. "It revolves around knowledgeable people pulling their own part, with timing and teamwork."

Seal

"Right now, no action is required or necessary," he said.

After Seal's hearing, he said, the board could be notified and action could be considered.

Despite the fact that the board took no action regarding his position, Seal announced that he would be tendering his resignation shortly in a statement issued after the board meeting.

"One of the main reasons I sought office here was because I felt that I was not treated fairly by this board and my concern extended to the students, staff and other vendors to the district," Seal said. "I do believe that I have brought fairness and impartiality to the boardroom over the last couple of years."

Seal's probationary hearing, originally scheduled for noon on Friday in Columbia, has been postponed until an as-yet undisclosed date.

In other business, the board —Approved the purchase of 70 hands-free cellular phone kits from Cellular

South in the amount of $89 each for a total of $6,230. These will be issued to the district's school bus drivers.

According to Assistant Superintendent Ed Danzey, these kits will allow the administration to program selected numbers into these phones, thereby allowing the district to restrict non business related calls. In previous months, the district has had to pay large overage charges for cell phone misuse. Danzey said these new kits would significantly lower costs for the district.

—Discussed the status of head football coach and interim athletic director Walt Esslinger. Esslinger was given the position in July of 2004, pending completion of his administrative certification. As of Jan. 20, Esslinger did not have his license, although he has completed all the necessary courses.

Superintendent David Kopf said that Esslinger would receive his certification in the very near future. The board took no action.

• The long awaited Nicholson Ave. project will go back out for bid. Original bids came in at about 30 percent over the engineers estimate, said Compton engineer Geof Clemens and were rejected. The project, which will revamp Nicholson Ave. from 84 Lumber to Hubbard's Hardware is estimated at about $435,000. Clemens said the city could overlay an additional area from Hubbards to the railroad track for about $17,000. The majority of the project will be funded by MDOT.

• A new study on a proposal to construct a marina project at the foot of Coleman Ave. is finished and will be under discussion at the next alderman's workshop and meeting. The workshop will be held at 6:30 p.m. on January 31 and the meeting will be held on February 1 at 6:30.

'Nereids Go on Tour' at the Gulf Coast Coliseum

The Krewe of Nereids invited their audience to go along with them during the 3rd annual ball as "Nereids Goes on Tour" at the Gulf Coast Coliseum on Saturday, Jan. 15, 2005. The ladies of the krewe shared the spirit, revelry and magic of Mardi Gras by taking their special guests along on a Grand Tour. The "almost professional" entertainers traveled to foreign territories to provide an uplifting and memorable experience for all.

Following the presentation of the Royal Court of 2004, the officers of the Krewe extended a warm "Welcome to the Ball" and the gala was underway.

The Officers and Krewe presented a very special tribute to a very special lady, their Captain - "The Captain of Captains".

The audience as told to buckle their seat belts and put their trays in an upright position as the celebration of the gaiety and glamour that is Mardi Gras was about to begin.

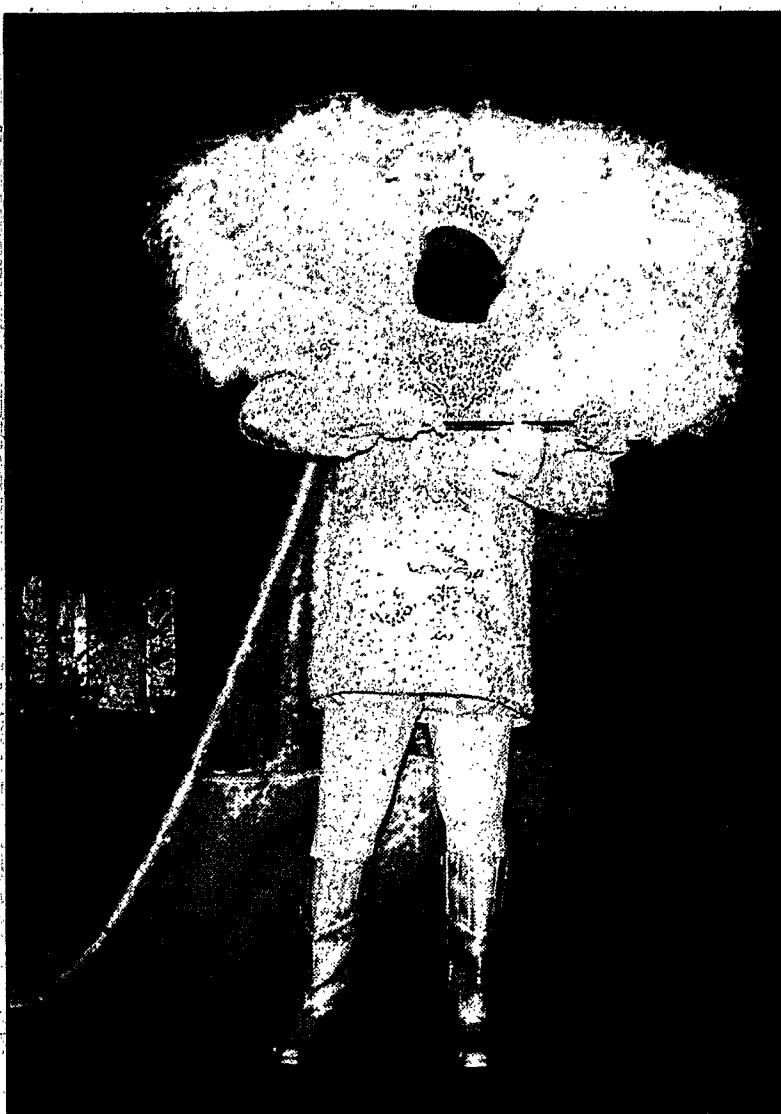

The ball provided an escape from troubles and a getaway to distant places. The enthusiastic Krewe members demonstrated musical performances in some of Europe's most famous theaters and balls. In London's Royal Albert Hall they declared that they "...Want More". While at the Moulin Rouge in France the ladies discovered it was "Raining Men". In Vienna the up-tempo, finger snapping music encouraged the dancers to "Sing, Sing, Sing." The Nereids Kids were adorable as they played the "Name Game" at home. There was time to reflect and "Dream..." at the grand Tivoli Gardens in Denmark. A celebration of triumphant homecoming was marked as the ladies danced their way down 42nd Street to a finale of "New York, New York." The variety music and dance delighted the spectators as well as the "entertainers".

Reigning over the festivities were Queen Doris XXXIX, whose identity is never revealed, and King Nereus XXXIX. Mr. Salvatore A. Pagano, Jr. W. Pagano is a resident of Waveland.

Pages to the Queen were Miss Madison Ann Hansell, Miss Cali Angela Longo, and Miss Taylor Turcotte. Pages to the King were Miss; Roklin Gaudin, Miss Emily Gruzinskas, and Miss Amy Catherine Love.

Dukes to His Majesty were Messers Charles Thomas Elkins, Ronald O. Pinn, Otis D. Sharpe, Douglas K. Handshoe, Craig M. Brelan, and Timothy J. Meyer.

Queen Doris was truly exquisite in her gown of pale seafoam green peau de soie overlaid with French lace embroidered with seed pearl flowers. The entire gown was heavily adorned with crystals. A fringe of silver beading accented the sleeves. The sweetheart neckline and bodice was enhanced with an elaborate design of brilliant rhinestones.

Her mantel of similar fabric was trimmed in ermine. Various colorful sea creatures and a silver lame "TV" in the center depicted the origins of the Nereids mythology - The collar was composed of numerous plumes dyed to match the gown to complete her Majesty's most stunning and unique ensemble. The costume of the King Nereus XXXIX matched in design that of the Queen.

Magical luxuriant images of some of the memorable countries visited on our tour were recalled as the Maids and Dukes of the Royal Court of 2005 appeared.

"England" was represented as the first Maid appeared in a royal blue, red, and white silk sheath. The gown depicted the English flag, the Union Jack. Ivy appliques twined around the a-line skirt and self-train. The fitted bodice, V-neck, and hem were highlighted by lavish bands of gold sequins. Capped sleeves were ornamented in silver military-style fringe. Her head piece of royal blue plumes and a crown was a magnificent compliment to her dress.

The awe-inspiring sites of "France" was apparent in the next Maid's colorful costume of iridescent pink and turquoise lame. The graceful split skirt was adorned with a double ruffled flounces to contrast. Silver beading draped from the shoulder straps of the fitted bodice ending in an empire-waist. Gold sequined applique scallops decorated the skirt and lower bodice of the gown. Her head piece of red plumes depicted the Eiffel Tower.

Queen Doris XXXIX,

The grandeur and splendor of "Russia" was easily recalled when this Maid arrived in a stately gown of red and white Italian satin trimmed with a deep band of luxurious ermine. The soft V-neck was complemented by a separate diamond patterned panel with ruby and gold accents. An enormous double-headed Russian eagle was appliqued in white and gold sequins on the back of the bell shaped skirt and self train. A lavish collar and headpiece trimmed with red plumes further depicted the theme of Russian eagles and with the addition of a golden cassock hat.

The fourth Maid in this year's court portrayed the inspiring vistas of the Emerald Isle - Ireland. She emerged in a satin sheath of emerald green and peach.

The skirt and self train was heavily banded in gold sequins and spotted with cabochon rubies.

Scarlet sequined lily appliques were scattered over the dress and fitted scooped neck bodice. The long bat winged sleeves were lined in red lame. The headpiece of peach ostrich plumes completed the ensemble.

The Maid portraying

"Denmark" came forth and brilliantly characterized the beautiful and bountiful gardens of her country. Her dress of sky blue and chartreuse truly brought to mind long summer days and nature. The princess neckline was bordered in a double row of rhinestones. Large appliques of raspberry tulips embellished the bell shaped skirt and self train. Gold and silver sequin banding accented the hem. A garland of stylized flowers draped from shoulder to wrist of the graceful Maid as she circled the ballroom floor. Her headpiece of chartreuse ostrich plumes magnificently carried forth the theme.

Signifying the mystic moors and lilted bagpipes of "Scotland" the last Maid appeared in an A-line sheath of hot pink accented with royal purple. The appliques of lime green leaves and gold sequined snow flakes highlighted the skirt and self-train. A small jeweled V-neck collar and pointed jester type capped sleeves enhanced with gold banding delineated the bodice of the gown. The headpiece was a Scottish themed shield complimented by royal purple plumes.

Each Maid and her Duke in a corresponding costume made a spectacular vision as they paraded around the floor as Nereids' Royal Court of 2005.

The Krewe of Nereids continues their celebration with their Mardi Gras parade on January 30, 2005 at 1:00 p.m. on Highway 90 in Waveland.

Myrick wins local Geographic Bee

Nicholas Myrick, a 6th grade student at Coast 1. Episcopal School, won the school-level competition of the National Geographic Bee and a chance at a $25,000 scholarship. The school-level Bee, at which students answered oral questions on geography, was the first round in the 17th annual National Geographic Society.

The kickoff for this year's Bee was the week of November 15, with thousands of schools around the United States and in the five U.S. territories participating. The school winners, including Myrick, will now take a written test: Up to 100 of the top scorers in each state will be eligible to compete in their state Bee/April 1.

The National Geographic Society will provide an all expenses-paid trip to Washington D.C. for state champions and teacher escorts to participate in the National Geographic Bee Championship May 24 and 25. The first-place national winner will receive a $25,000 college Nicholas Myrick scholarship and a lifetime membership to the society.

"Jeopardy" host Alex Trebek will moderate the national finals on May 25. The program will air on the National Geographic Channel, and afterward on public television stations, produced by Maryland Public Television.

The National Geographic Society is the world's largest nonprofit scientific and educational organization. The 116-year-old society reflects the world through magazines, books, maps, television and interactive media.

Eating should be a pleasurable experience. The joy I get is from the satisfied faces of people I cook for."

HANCOCK HIGH INDUCTS HONOR SOCIETY MEMBERS

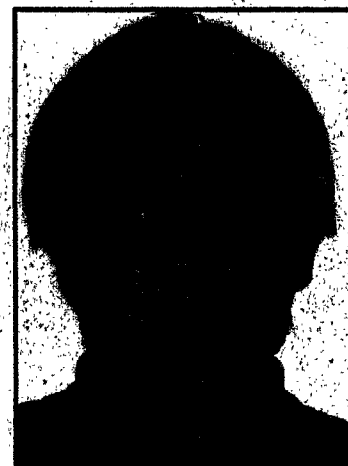

At an evening ceremony on January 13, Hancock High School inducted 14 new members into its National Honor Society (NHS) chapter. The NHS serves to honor those students who have demonstrated excellence in the areas of scholarship, leadership, service, and character. David Kopf, Superintendent of Education, provided the invocation and Melissa Whitfield, Hancock NHS Sponsor, welcomed those in attendance. Current members Ryan Chauvin, Lindsey Cuevas, Justin Kopf, and Elizabeth White explained the importance of character, service, leadership, and scholarship. Tish Haas Williams, Executive Director of the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce, served as guest speaker to provide the induction ceremony's address. She spoke about the importance of being willing to lead, maintaining professional relationships, and other essential past experiences. Hancock High students recently inducted into the National Honor Society include: back row, L to R: Cody Arceneaux, Shawn Botts, Tom Stockman III, Mark Hussey and front row, L to R: Amanda Dearman, Sarah Fricke, Meghan Lee, Erin Dugat, Whitley Loyd, Penny Lott, Brianna Gambino, Brandie Nugent, and Stephanie Slaughter (not pictured is Gerald Padron). These new members will continue to uphold the NHS purposes of creating an enthusiasm for learning, stimulating a desire to freely help others, promoting leadership skills, and developing strong character.

Myrick wins local Geographic Bee

Nicholas Myrick, a 6th grade student at Coast 1. Episcopal School, won the school-level competition of the National Geographic Bee and a chance at a $25,000 scholarship. The school-level Bee, at which students answered oral questions on geography, was the first round in the 17th annual National Geographic Society.

The kickoff for this year's Bee was the week of November 15, with thousands of schools around the United States and in the five U.S. territories participating. The school winners, including Myrick, will now take a written test: Up to 100 of the top scorers in each state will be eligible to compete in their state Bee April 1.

The National Geographic Society will provide an all expenses-paid trip to Washington D.C. for state champions and teacher escorts to participate in the National Geographic Bee Championship May 24 and 25. The first-place national winner will receive a $25,000 college scholarship and a lifetime membership to the society.

"Jeopardy" host Alex Trebek will moderate the national finals on May 25. The program will air on the National Geographic Channel, and afterward on public television stations, produced by Maryland Public Television.

The National Geographic Society is the world's largest nonprofit scientific and educational organization. The 116-year-old society reflects the world through magazines, books, maps, television and interactive media.

Work Can Be Therapeutic

It probably goes without saying that work can be tremendously therapeutic. Honest toil often has a way of making us forget about our petty problems and the minor worries of the day. But more important than being happily distracted by work and even finding work playful at times, through work we have the opportunity to improve the world, and to aid God in His ongoing creation. Those who avoid work at all costs will never feel the truly redemptive power of work or feel the pride and satisfaction of seeing something that they have completed. But nowadays, many of us work so hard that we never have time to just enjoy life. If you're working a full-time job and have a family, you probably go through life feeling quite harried and never really have time to stop and smell the flowers. The busiest life is probably not the best life; the good life certainly requires an ideal mix of work and play.

If you're an able-bodied person and you haven't been working much these days, get out there and do something productive, even if it's just pulling up weeds in the yard. On the other hand, if you've recently been working too hard, take a day off this weekend and have some mindless fun.

I was proud of everything I had worked for, and all this was my reward.

Freegans, Vegans and others

About 30 years ago, I was passing a large dumpster about ten o'clock at night when a startled street person exploded up and out of it. Dragging some pieces of paper and trash with him, he spied me, became even more terrified, hit the ground running, and fled.

Whether he was taking shelter in the dumpster or foraging for food scraps is anyone's guess. What is abundantly clear is that incidents like this have only multiplied manifold over the years, so that "dumpster diving" is a standard phenomenon in urban centers.

Usually, it is indeed street people who engage in dumpster diving, ignoring whatever misgivings they may have about the likelihood of dumpster food being spoiled or infected by an assortment of germs, bacteria and viruses, they dive in nonetheless.

And some derelicts do sleep in dumpsters, apparently attracted by the metal shielding afforded them from the elements and interlopers. Yes, some sleep in despite the fact that one or the other, still asleep, has been snatched and compacted by a garbage truck.

With a weird twist of roles, hot current news is focusing on dumpster divers who are not homeless but rather well-housed and well-heeled.

That's right. There are well-off people who regularly engage in dumpster diving for the food treasures hidden there.

Now, mind you, this is an entirely different breed from well-off dumpster divers who forage for hidden "treasures" such as usable/saleable metal, lumber, building materials, furniture, tools, artifacts, books, and assorted articles.

The enterprising, independent dumpster divers who target discarded food are known as "freegans," indicating that they are not in any kind of need but are bent solely on taking advantage of meats and other foods which rival the fresh offerings of supermarkets. Why not save a few bucks here and there when the discarded food is about as fresh as any?

Reflections on Life

by Father Jerome LeDoux, SVD

It is one thing to hear about freegans, but it is quite another thing to hear freegans talk about themselves and their activities. A few of them called in to a radio talk show and described themselves as financially well off. Yet, they habitually leaned into or entered dumpsters to obtain frozen steaks and other perishables right after they had been dumped.

Would you suppose that the main attraction for freegans is the fact that treasures scooped from dumpsters are completely free of charge, if not necessarily free of spoilage, germs and other liabilities? Or is it the adventure of it; that is, the sheer joy of the hunt? Or might it be an intriguing combination of these?

Now these freegans are not to be confused with vegans, the term for total vegetarians, although it seems some enterprising wordsmith chiseled the word freegan out of the word vegan.

If anything, freegans are giving vegans a bad name, for free steaks and other meats are among freegans' prized treasures in the coveted hunting grounds of dumpsters.

Vegans, of course, would not dream of buying steaks and other animal products from markets, let alone extracting them from public, filthy, unsanitized dumpsters.

Totally free or pricey, vegans have zero interest in any animal products or their derivatives.

It takes an acute degree of desperation, low self-esteem, hopelessness and headless abandon to sleep in a dumpster. First, a solid sleeper runs the risk of being compacted in a garbage truck and thrown into a dump, although one individual survived this gamble.

Second, what amount of nerve or lack of thought does it take to sleep in a dumpster which we know is a meeting area for hungry rats, cats, raccoons and other scavengers? I am a personal witness to such scavengers, although I have not slept in a dumpster.

I don't know about you, but it gives me the shivers to imagine myself entering into a dumpster, much less foraging in one, and even less sleeping in one. However, Father Michael Fritzen, one of my predecessors here at St. Augustine Church, as a last measure got into the church dumpster looking for a large lost check. And found it!

As shocking and repulsive as dumpster diving for food and general foraging may be to most Americans, it is a way of life to untold millions of people in countries both near to us and far from us where the city slums and the city dumps are often synonymous.

Caught in still photos and on videos, slums surrounding large cities in many developing countries are in large part coincident with the city dumps. In effect, numerous slum dwellers live in cardboard, wood or rusty tin shanties, and continuously comb their smelly environs for usables of every description, and, yes, eatables.

Just try to picture yourself living permanently in a 6-by-8-foot cardboard shelter within the environs of a city dump where the overripe odor of spoiled and rotting foodstuffs and putrid wastes no longer overpowers you because you have grown so accustomed to it.

So, context is of ultimate importance in our viewing and perceiving such things as dumpster diving. In some sections of developing countries, it is not only a way of life, but is also complacently accepted as an inevitable, unchanging reality.

In other words, dumpster diving is not an eyebrow-lifting phenomenon in many very poor countries, whereas it is a shocker here in the States. Therefore, our awareness and sensitivity to the needs of others must be elevated both nationally and internationally.

Except for the freegans. No matter how rich ours or any other country becomes, there will always be enterprising freegans and general-dumpster foragers who truly believe that a dumpster treasure saved or recovered is a treasure earned.

Paraphrasing Jesus, "the poor you will always have with you," (Matthew 26:11) we can say that the freegans we will always have with us, because the world will never want for adventurous fortune seekers set on getting the most out of little or nothing.

Jesus, of course, is the Divine Dumpster, inviting every human being to come and dump on him whatever or whomever is troubling or afflicting us at any given time.

"Come to me, all you who labor and are burdened, and I will give you rest. Take my yoke upon you and learn from me, for I am meek and humble of heart; and you will find rest for yourselves. For my yoke is easy, and my burden light." (Matthew 11:28-30)

Scripture Says...
By Ed Young

Be humble, Americans

Do you think the following scriptures, America, could or will experience?

Your country is desolate, your cities are burned with fire; your land, strangers devour it in your presence, and it is desolate as overthrown by foreigners (Isaiah 1:7).

Versé 9, "except the Lord of hosts had left a very small remnant, we should have been like Sodom, and we should have been like unto Gomorrah."

That very small remnant mentioned here is what America's churches are doing today. They are speaking out against, permissive sex, abortion, same sex marriage, and the flaming liberals' apparent agenda to take God out of the American life. The belief in the Almighty is what has made this country free and brave.

The Judeo-Christian Bible is what this country was established on. The root of America's constitution is based on God's government for mankind. Take away the Bible's form of living the life, pleasing to God. Down will come America.

90 percent of Americans believe in God Almighty. Just think what would happen if millions would pray and ask God to Bless America again.

The Bible says that if God's people would humble themselves and turn from their wicked ways, he would heal their land. That's a promise!

Disciplined Living

Every athlete knows practice makes perfect. College basketball players, who shoot over 80% from the charity stripe, practice.

They shoot the ball hundreds of times to perfect that one shot from that single position. And the practice pays off. The same thing is true in other areas of life. To do well at teaching, for example, you have to practice. The best performance in the classroom might come when a lesson or a course is being taught the third or fourth time. The principle also holds in the spiritual realm. Listen to what the apostle Paul says to followers of Jesus Christ.

"Just as you presented your members as slaves to impurity and to lawlessness resulting in further lawlessness, so now present your members as slaves to righteousness, resulting in sanctification" [or, holiness] (Romans 6:19).

Paul is talking about doing something over and over again. He is telling us holy living comes from practice. Of course, you must have the Holy Spirit living in you. But if the Holy Spirit is in you, you will practice living a holy life. Just as practicing sin leads to greater sin, practicing good behavior leads to holiness. But this takes discipline. Just as a basketball player must be disciplined to practice to play the game, so life itself requires discipline and practice.

Living a clean life, a life without drugs, without promiscuous sex and without unseemly behavior, takes discipline and practice.

Living a Christian lifestyle takes discipline and practice. Overcoming a sin, like using pornography, takes discipline and it takes practice. But with the power of the Holy Spirit present in your life, you can live a disciplined life which actually leads to holiness.

Work Can Be Therapeutic

It probably goes without saying that work can be tremendously therapeutic. Honest toil often has a way of making us forget about our petty problems and the minor worries of the day. But more important than being happily distracted by work and even finding work playful at times, through work we have the opportunity to improve the world, and to aid God in His ongoing creation. Those who avoid work at all costs will never feel the truly redemptive power of work or feel the pride and satisfaction of seeing something that they have completed. But nowadays, many of us work so hard that we never have time to just enjoy life. If you're working a full-time job and have a family, you probably go through life feeling quite harried and never really have time to stop and smell the flowers. The busiest life is probably not the best life; the good life certainly requires an ideal mix of work and play. If you're an able-bodied person and you haven't been working much these days, get out there and do something productive, even if it's just pulling up weeds in the yard. On the other hand, if you've recently been working too hard, take a day off this weekend and have some mindless fun.

I was proud of everything I had worked for, and all this was my reward.

Freegans, Vegans and others

About 30 years ago, I was passing a large dumpster about ten o'clock at night when a startled street person exploded up and out of it. Dragging some pieces of paper and trash with him, he spied me, became even more terrified, hit the ground running and fled.

Whether he was taking shelter in the dumpster or foraging for food scraps is anyone's guess. What is abundantly clear is that incidents like this have only multiplied manifold over the years, so that "dumpster diving" is a standard phenomenon in urban centers.

Usually, it is indeed street people who engage in dumpster diving. Ignoring whatever misgivings they may have about the likelihood of dumpster food being spoiled or infected by an assortment of germs, bacteria and viruses, they dive in nonetheless.

And some derelicts do sleep in dumpsters, apparently attracted by the metal shielding afforded them from the elements and interlopers. Yes, some sleep in despite the fact that one or the other, still asleep, has been snatched and compacted by a garbage truck.

With a weird twist of roles, hot current news is focusing on dumpster divers who are not homeless but rather well-housed and well-heeled.

That's right. There are well-off people who regularly engage in dumpster diving for the food treasures hidden there.

Now, mind you, this is an entirely different breed from well-off dumpster divers who forage for hidden "treasures"

such as usable/saleable metal, lumber, building materials, furniture, tools, artifacts, books, and assorted articles.

The enterprising, independent dumpster divers who target discarded food are known as "freegans," indicating that they are not in any kind of need but are bent solely on taking advantage of meats and other foods which rival the fresh offerings of supermarkets. Why not save a few bucks here and there when the discarded food is about as fresh as any?

It is one thing to hear about freegans, but it is quite another thing to hear freegans talk about themselves and their activities. A few of them called in to a radio talk show and described themselves as financially well off. Yet, they habitually leaned into or entered dumpsters to obtain frozen steaks and other perishables right after they had been dumped.

Would you suppose that the main attraction for freegans is the fact that treasures scooped from dumpsters are completely free of charge, if not necessarily free of spoilage, germs and other liabilities? Or is it the adventure of it; that is, the sheer joy of the hunt? Or might it be an intriguing combination of these?

Now these freegans are not to be confused with vegans, the term for total vegetarians, although it seems some enterprising wordsmith chiseled the word freegan out of the word vegan.

If anything, freegans are giving vegans a bad name, for free steaks and other meats are among freegans, prized treasures in the coveted hunting grounds of dumpsters.

Vegans, of course, would not dream of buying steaks and other animal products from markets, let alone extracting them from public, filthy, unsanitized dumpsters.

Totally free or pricey, vegans have zero interest in any animal products or their derivatives.

It takes an acute degree of desperation, low self-esteem, hopelessness and heedless abandon to sleep in a dumpster. First, a solid sleeper runs the risk of being compacted in a garbage truck and thrown into a dump, although one individual survived this gamble.

Second, what amount of nerve or lack of thought does it take to sleep in a dumpster which we know is a meeting area for hungry rats, cats, raccoons and other scavengers? I am a personal witness to such scavengers, although I have not slept in a dumpster.

I don't know about you, but it gives me the shivers to imagine myself entering into a dumpster, much less foraging in one, and even less sleeping in one. However, Father Michael Fritzen, one of my predecessors here at St. Augustine Church, as a last measure got into the church dumpster looking for a large lost check. And found it!

As shocking and repulsive as dumpster diving for food and general foraging may be to most Americans, it is a way of life to untold millions of people in countries both near to us and far from us where the city slums and the city dumps are often synonymous.

Caught in still photos and on videos, slums surrounding large cities in many developing countries are in large part coincident with the city dumps. In effect, numerous slum dwellers live in cardboard, wood or rusty tin shanties, and continuously comb their smelly environs for usables of every description, and, yes, eatables.

Just try to picture yourself living permanently in a 6-by-8-foot cardboard shelter within the environs of a city dump where the overripe odor of spoiled and rotting foodstuffs and putrid wastes no longer overpowers you because you have grown so accustomed to it.

So, context is of ultimate importance in our viewing and perceiving such things as dumpster diving. In some sections of developing countries, it is not only a way of life, but is also complacently accepted as an inevitable, unchanging reality.

In other words, dumpster diving is not an eyebrow-lifting phenomenon in many very poor countries, whereas it is a shocker here in the States. Therefore, our awareness and sensitivity to the needs of others must be elevated both nationally and internationally.

Except for the freegans. No matter how rich ours or any other country becomes, there will always be enterprising freegans and general dumpster foragers who truly believe that a dumpster treasure saved or recovered is a treasure earned.

Paraphrasing Jesus, "the poor you will always have with you," (Matthew 26:11) we can say that the freegans we will always have with us, because the world will never want for adventurous fortune seekers set on getting the most out of little or nothing.

Jesus, of course, is the Divine Dumpster, inviting every human being to come and dump on him whatever or whomever is troubling or afflicting us at any given time:

"Come to me, all you who labor and are burdened, and I will give you rest. Take my yoke upon you and learn from me, for I am meek and humble of heart; and you will find rest for yourselves. For my yoke is easy, and my burden light." (Matthew 11:28-30)

Reflections on Life

Scripture Says...

By Ed Young

Be humble, Americans

Do you think the following scriptures, America, could or will experience?

Your country is desolate, your cities are burned with fire; your land, strangers devour it in your presence, and it is desolate as overthrown by foreigners (Isaiah 1:7).

Verse 9, "except the Lord of hosts had left a very small remnant, we should have been like Sodom, and we should have been like unto Gomorrah."

That very small remnant mentioned here is what America's churches are doing today. They are speaking out against, permissive sex, abortion, same sex marriage, and the flaming liberals' apparent agenda to take God out of the American life. The belief in the Almighty is what has made this country free and brave. The Judeo-Christian Bible is what this country was established on. The root of America's constitution is based on God's government for mankind. Take away the Bible's form of living the life, pleasing to God. Down will come America.

90 percent of Americans believe in God Almighty. Just think what would happen if millions would pray and ask God to Bless America again.

The Bible says, that if God's people would humble themselves and turn from their wicked ways, he would heal their land. That's a promise!

Disciplined Living

Every athlete knows practice makes perfect.

College basketball players, who shoot over 80% from the charity stripe, practice.

They shoot the ball hundreds of times to perfect that one shot from that single position. And the practice pays off. The same thing is true in other areas of life. To do well at teaching, for example, you have to practice. The best performance in the classroom might come when a lesson or a course is being taught the third or fourth time. The principle also holds in the spiritual realm. Listen to what the apostle Paul says to followers of Jesus Christ.

"Just as you presented your members as slaves to impurity and to lawlessness resulting in further lawlessness, so now present your members as slaves to righteousness, resulting in sanctification" [or, holiness] (Romans 6:19).

Paul is talking about doing something over and over again. He is telling us holy living comes from practice. Of course, you must have the Holy Spirit living in you. But if the Holy Spirit is in you, you will practice living a holy life. Just as practicing sin leads to greater sin, practicing good behavior leads to holiness. But this takes discipline. Just as a basketball player must be disciplined to practice to play the game, so life itself requires discipline and practice.

Living a clean life, a life without drugs, without promiscuous sex and without unseemly behavior, takes discipline and practice.

Living a Christian lifestyle takes discipline and practice. Overcoming a sin, like using pornography, takes discipline and it takes practice. But with the power of the Holy Spirit present in your life, you can live a disciplined life which actually leads to holiness.

Entertainment

Brooks & Dunn to perform at Casino Magic Bay St. Louis

Country's biggest act, Brooks & Dunn will perform two heart-pounding shows at Casino Magic Bay St. Louis on February 25th & 26th at 9 p.m. Tickets start at $49.95 and are available now through the Casino Magic Box Office, by calling 1-800-5-MAGIC-5 or through any Ticketmaster outlet.

When Kix Brooks & Ronnie Dunn dropped their first album, Brand New Man, they were just looking for a hit – and not thinking about realigning the potential for modern country music. But with their bulked-up sound, full-tilt attack and their way with a hook and a melody, 21 #1 singles and 27 million records later, it's safe to say their revved up honky tonk sound has redefined country.

"We were singing about girls that got away...good times...hard times...having fun...aching..." says Kix Brooks, the whirlwind dervish songwriter known for his high-timing stage persona. "We were singing about things we knew, things we learned playing in beer joints and honky tonks. And it seems like a lot of other people were living that stuff, too."

The hits kept coming for the award-winning, multi-platinum duo and include: "Neon Moon," "Boot Scootin' Boogie," "Hard Workin' Man," "That Ain't No Way To Go," "Rock My World (Little Country Girl)," "She's Not The Cheatin' Kind," "My Maria," "Mama Don't Get Dressed Up For Nothing," "Only In America," "Ain't Nothing 'Bout You," "You Can't Take The Honky Tonk Out Of The Girl," "The Long Goodbye" and "Red Dirt Road."

With a track record like the 4-time Entertainers of the Year, they may be more dependable than Timex, but way more exciting. And so it is that while nobody was really keeping score, it's already time for Brooks & Dunn's The Greatest Hits Collection II.

"We're not keeping score...We're not hung up on the milestones," says Ronnie Dunn, the man whose vocal chords are so muscular he can wring every atom of nuance from a song without ever seeming to push. "We keep trying to top ourselves, to make it better. We want to dig deeper into the music, find songs that feel right – and keep reaching. It's what's brought us this far, and it's the thing that's going to keep driving us as writers and as performers."

Brooks & Dunn

formers."

Given that Brooks & Dunn have played the Presidential Inauguration, the Winter Olympics and the Dale Earnhardt Tribute Concert...have staged three Neon Circus & Wild West Shows – featuring a sideshow of jugglers, clowns, trick ropers, mechanical bulls, the Honky Tonk Hall of Fame along with some of the brightest rising stars in country music ranging from Toby Keith and Keith Urban to Montgomery Gentry and Rascal Flatts...quietly raise all kinds of money for myriad charities...and even graced the Corn Flakes box, this is a duo that knows how to get things done. They're not afraid to dig in, to work hard, to keep striving.

Given the enduring nature of the music – if you stretched all the Brooks & Dunn albums sold, they would stretch all the way to the moon and you can't go an hour without hearing one of their songs on the radio – it comes down to quality. And fire!

"There's a fire and a kick and a passion that comes through on the best music," says Dunn. "When it's happening, that deeper thing rips its way out. In the midst of this revival thing, disguised as a party – which is what we try to do on our good nights – you can tell there's more to it than just singing songs people know. It's an age-old thing: appeal to the emotions and the heart will follow."

With all the awards – CMAs, ACMs, Grammys, American Music Awards, Pollstar, Billboard, and beyond, all the hits – and plenty more to come, all the sales – with 25 million certified and 2 million in spare change (they're the second best-selling duo only to Simon & Garfunkel), it still comes down to the fans and the music.

"Whether you're in a beer joint or the coliseum, songs move people and people move us," says Brooks. "When you're up there rocking, and they're giving it back, you just plug into that energy. That's strong stuff – and we like it strong. When you can move 'em with your music, it's pretty great. And that's what we're here to do. All kinds of stuff comes and goes. THAT doesn't – it's what makes us wanna keep doin' this."

Don't miss Brooks & Dunn, Feb. 25-26 at Casino Magic Bay St. Louis! Must be at least 21 to attend.

Sarandon revisits death row with 'The Exonerated'

By Karl J. Paloucek
© Zap2it

Few Hollywood personalities have as much to say as Susan Sarandon does. Ever-vigilant in choosing projects that reinforce the causes she supports, Sarandon joins Danny Glover, Aidan Quinn and Brian Dennehy in Court TV's "The Exonerated," premiering Thursday, Jan. 27, to tell the stories of six individuals who spent years on death row before new evidence proved them innocent.

Sarandon became involved with "The Exonerated" from its beginnings as a New York stage play in 2002. The experience served to heighten her sensitivity to capital punishment, already acute from her time spent on 1995's "Dead Man Walking."

"I knew that the death penalty, on an intellectual level, didn't make any sense. I knew that it wasn't a deterrent; I knew that it was highly expensive," she says. "What happened on 'Dead Man Walking' was that I understood, having looked at both sides, I felt - in a much more visceral way - that because I had children, I was against the death penalty. Because of what it says about punishment, what it says about the society, what it says about my beliefs about how you find the truth, what it says about the bigger picture. That yes, I would certainly want to kill the person that hurt my child, but I wouldn't want the society that I live in to do it."

These days, Sarandon and her partner, actor Tim Robbins, both early outspoken opponents of the war on Iraq, are increasingly sensitive to their children's environment - particularly when the kids have to deal with the consequences of their parents' press.

"When it affects the family, that really upsets me," she says. "And I have to say that this last bout, when events were canceled - when the United Way canceled me, and the Baseball Hall of Fame thing, you know, for asking questions in our lead-up to the war - my kids were worried for us. And that is upsetting. But then, when you look at the bigger picture, to look back on this war... I wanted to be able to say to them, in hindsight, '10 years down the line or whatever, I did my best. We really tried.'"

"NFL Football" Sunday, Jan. 23

(Fox, 3 p.m. ET): The conference championship games are contested beginning on Fox with the NFC. The network's top team of Joe Buck, Troy Aikman and Cris Collinsworth calls the action. Then CBS takes over with the voices of Jim Nantz and Phil Simms describing all the goings-on in the AFC championship. At the conclusion of the NFL's second-biggest day of the year, the hype machine gets cranked up for its biggest - Super Bowl XXXIX on Feb. 6 in Jacksonville, Fla.

"NBA Basketball" Thursday, Jan. 27

(TNT, 7 p.m. ET): A fight of another kind is developing between the Detroit Pistons and Indiana Pacers, who are jostling for playoff position behind the Cleveland Cavaliers in the Central Division. The infamous Nov. 19 brawl combatants last met on Christmas Day, and each team's mood was decidedly more festive than a month earlier. The Pistons prevailed, led by Richard Hamilton's 25 points, offsetting 24 scored by Reggie Miller, and a more committed defensive effort.

"Boxing" Saturday, Jan. 29 (HBO, 9:45 p.m. ET): Arturo Gatti, one of boxing's most popular combatants, climbs back into the ring in defense of his super lightweight title against Jesse James Leija in Atlantic City, N.J. The 32-year-old Gatti (38-6, 29 knockouts) has participated in Ring magazine's "Fight of the Year" four times, a tribute to his unrelenting grit and determination. He could be in line for a fight against Floyd Mayweather Jr. if he beats Leija (47-6-2, 19 KOs) tonight.

Mike Bibby leads the Sacramento Kings against the San Antonio Spurs Thursday on TNT.

Celebrity Scoop

Currie Graham

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it

Others may deem him the villain of "NYPD Blue," but Currie Graham disagrees.

As hard-nosed Lt. Thomas Balé, the actor is adding zip to the 12th and final year of the Tuesday ABC police drama, largely through his character's confrontations with long-beloved figures Detectives Andy Sipowicz and Greg Medavoy (Dennis Franz, Gordon Clapp). Examine his actions closely, though, and Balé is simply going by the book... so the trouble is less in what he does and more in how he does it.

"It doesn't seem to be a terribly emotional thing for him on the surface," Graham says. "He feels like he's doing his job and asking certain things of (those under his command), and they can't follow the rules, and what's the problem? Early on, people asked me, 'How does it feel to be the bad guy?' That never dawned on me. The only thing that's difficult for him is 'gray.' It's hard for him to live in that area."

An "NYPD Blue" guest star in 1997, Graham fleshed out Balé mostly on his own. "I wanted to play this guy like the CEO of a company, not like a street cop. I didn't feel the language reflected that kind of behavior, and the more I got into this guy, I realized he'd have to be pretty stiff in order to have some polarity in the show. The other guys are pretty loose, and it just seemed to click."

Seen as a nicer law enforcer in the new remake of the cult movie "Assault on Precinct 13," Graham knew going in that his "NYPD Blue" stint would be finite. The series' finale airs March 1. "I'm lamenting that it's coming to an end," he says. "I love going to work on that show with those people. They're sort of a little family."

CBS hopes the 'NUMB3RS' add up to a hit

By Kate O'Hare
© Zap2it

In December, Cheryl Heuton, executive producer and creator of the new CBS drama "NUMB3RS" (yep, that's a 3) posted a comment on a math-oriented Internet bulletin board. Questions had come up about network promos for the show's pilot, which depicts a mathematician using equations to solve crimes.

Heuton pointed out that the story is fact-based, and the equations are real. Then she quipped, "Just wait until episode 4, when the poor guy nearly loses his mind trying to solve P vs. NP."

In case you're curious, Stephen Cook of the University of Toronto begins his statement of the problem by saying, "The P vs. NP problem is to determine whether every language accepted by some nondeterministic algorithm in polynomial time is also accepted by some (deterministic) algorithm in polynomial time."

Heuton's flip comment caused another poster to fire back, "Sure, mathematicians get frustrated, but to 'nearly lose his mind' over P vs. NP is just bizarre and unrealistic."

This gives you some small idea of the deep waters into which Heuton and Falacci are wading when they attempt to blend the esoteric world of high-level mathematics with the more pragmatic world of crime and punishment.

After premiering Sunday, Jan. 23, following the AFC Championship football game, "NUMB3RS" moves to its regular Friday time slot on Jan. 28. David Krumholtz stars as Charlie Eppes, a math prodigy at a Southern California university (his classroom stuff is shot at Caltech in Pasadena). His older brother, Don (Rob Morrow), is an FBI agent in Los Angeles, and both often wind up at the home of their retired father, Alan (Judd Hirsch). At the university, Charlie deals with his mentor, Dr. Larry Fleishman (Peter MacNicol); at the FBI, Don deals with partner Terry Lake (Sabrina Lloyd) and agent David Sinclair (Alimi Ballard).

"We had written movies where the main characters were scientists and engineers and mathematicians," Falacci says during a break in filming at the show's sets in a former corporate headquarters in downtown Los Angeles. "We really enjoyed it. They are really detectives, mathematicians, the way they apply their art."

As to making the two leads brothers, Heuton says, "Whenever you have a character who has a lot to learn about being human, you get a lot of character work. We also wanted a show that would take place in a human dimension that would go to the family home."

"We wanted to have our mathematician partner up in some way with someone whose job is solving crimes, so you could see how their logic fit together differently. It occurred to us that how you would get the best crunch between these two is if they were brothers."

This angle also goes into what happens when there is one exceptional child in a family. According to the producers' back story, while young Charlie was excelling as a child prodigy - graduating from high school with Don, entering college at 13, monopolizing his mother's attention - Don was left feeling inadequate and mediocre. But at the same time, Charlie envied Don's more normal life and worries that he's only liked for his genius.

"In a weird way," Morrow says, "the mother and Charlie were tight, and the father and Don bonded over 'We're just regular guys.' Don's probably really intelligent, but because his brother's so intelligent, he thinks he's not. There's definitely been some resentment."

Rob Morrow stars as Los Angeles-based FBI agent Don Eppes, who employs his mathematician brother to solve crimes, in the midseason drama "NUMB3RS" premiering Sunday on CBS.

"But Don had friends," Heuton says, "(and) was a popular athlete. Don dated girls. For Charlie, that was the ideal life. He's always knocking on the glass of Don's life, and Don, like a lot of older brothers, is always trying to get away from him."

"There's also no mother there," Krumholtz says, "so you'll learn what the deal is there."

While no one on the show - except the consultant, a Caltech professor - is a mathematician, it turns out that Krumholtz, who freely admits, "I was real bad at math" and failed algebra twice, may have hidden talents.

"So far," he says, "there have been a couple moments on set where I've understood something. It feels really cool. It's vindicating. It's like, 'I'm meant to be here. I guess I do have a knack for this stuff even though I was so bad at it in high school.'"

'Law & Order' character plays name game

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it

On "Law & Order," Sam Waterston plays the character Jack McCoy, but on his desk, the name plate says "John J. McCoy." So why do they call him "Jack" on the show? - T. Beebe, Ypsilanti, Mich.

It's a nickname, and not an uncommon one for people whose given first name is John. Many people who knew President John F. Kennedy called him "Jack"; in fact, that was the title of a CBS documentary made about him several years ago.

In the episode of "The West Wing" in which Special Agent Donovan (Mark Harmon) is killed, what is the name of the song at the end, and who sings it? It is a very haunting melody. - Jim Barnes, Mount Kisco, N.Y.

It's Jeff Buckley's version of the Leonard Cohen song "Hallelujah," and NBC's White House drama isn't the only TV series to have used it. It also has turned up in episodes of Fox's "The O.C." CBS' "Without a Trace" and NBC's "LAX."

Sam Waterston

With so many old TV shows coming out on DVD, will "The Greatest American Hero" - my favorite - also be coming out on DVD? - Anonymous, via e-mail.

As it happens, yes, and not very long from now. The first season of the ABC series about a klutzy superhero (William Katt) will be released Feb. 8 on the Anchor Bay Home Entertainment label.

Help! My friends don't believe this movie exists. It's one of my favorite Andy Griffith movies, "Angel in My Pocket," co-starring Lee Meriwether and made in 1969. Is there a chance it will be shown again? - Gary Speed, Odessa, Texas.

That charming comedy about a reassigned minister (Griffith) and his new congregation definitely exists. While it's true it hasn't appeared on television in some time, there's always the chance a cable channel such as AMC will run it again. AMC has the rights to many movies of that period made by Universal, the studio behind this one. Keep your hopes up.

'All My Children' hits the Great White Way

Susan Lucci

By Paulette Cohn
© Zap2it

"All My Children" turned 35 on Jan. 5, and to celebrate the occasion, the cast will perform a little song, a little dance in a one-night Broadway spectacular to benefit Broadway Cares/Equity Fights AIDS. The event takes place Feb. 7 at the Town Hall in New York.

Hosted by Walt Willey and Cameron Mathison, the show has Susan Lucci front and center, along with Tonya Pinkins (who was nominated for a Tony for "Jelly's Last Jam"), Rosie O'Donnell and Kathy Brier of "One Life to Live."

Other "AMC" stars who are no strangers to the stage and will be performing include Eder Riegel ("Les Misérables"), Christian Campbell ("Reefer Madness"), James Mitchell ("Mack and Mabel") and David Canary ("The Fantasticks").

Also on hand will be Jacob Young, Eva La Rue, Jill Larson, Bobbie Eakes, Alexa Havins, Rebecca Budig, Alicia Minshew, Vincent Irizarry, Michael E. Knight, Aiden Turner and more. "AMC" alum Kelly Ripa will attend as the show's special guest.

"From our first days in the late 1980s, the daytime community has always joined Broadway Cares in its fund-raising efforts," says Tom Viola, executive director of the organization. "The stars of daytime have been special champions - not to mention that a good many 'moonlight' nights on Broadway."

Tickets range in price from $50 to $500 and can be obtained by calling (212) 840-0770, ext. 268, or visiting www.broadwaycares.org.

Can't get enough of Susan Lucci? Fans of the Emmy-winning actress can tune in when she guest stars as mousy Ms. Romano, Raven's school counselor, on Disney Channel's "That's So Raven" Friday, Jan. 28.

Dear Paulette: Jonathan Jackson, who used to play Lucky on "General Hospital," left to make a movie a couple of years ago, and I haven't heard any more about him. What has he been doing? He's such a great actor. I miss seeing him on "General Hospital." - Judy F. in Orland, Calif.

Dear Reader: Jackson has indeed been making movies. In 2002, he appeared in "Insomnia" and "Tuck Everlasting." Last year, he starred in "Dirty Dancing: Havana Nights" and Stephen King's "Riding the Bullet."

Family Best Bets

Sunday
10:30 a.m. on AMC
Movie: Dead Men Don't Wear Plaid
Steve Martin stars as private eye Rigby Reardon in this 1982 parody of 1940s gumshoe movies. When a beautiful woman (Rachel Ward) comes to him for help proving her father was murdered, Reardon can't say no. En route to solving the case, he meets numerous film noir characters. Carl Reiner both directs and co-stars in the movie.

7 p.m. on 49-PAX
Young Blades
Pax hopes to re-create the original series success of "Doc" with this new one. Bruce Boxleitner stars as Capt. Duval, teacher extraordinaire at Musketeer Academy. Along with pupils D'Artagnan Jr., Jacqueline, Ramon and Siroc (Tobias Mehler, Karen Cliche, Zak Santiago, Mark Hildreth), he battles the evil Cardinal Mazarin (Michael Ironside). In "Wanted," Jacqueline disguises herself as a man to join the Musketeers and D'Artagnan finds out.

Wednesday
7 p.m. on FAM
Movie: Searching for David's Heart
The death of her beloved brother, David, a year earlier is tearing 16-year-old Darcy and her family apart. She and her dad, in particular, are burying their grief instead of dealing with it. Desperate for some insight, she goes looking for the one person she is sure will have it: the transplant patient who got her brother's heart. Danielle Panabaker, Jeffrey Nordling ("Providence") and Ricky Ullman star in this 2004 family drama.

8 p.m. on HALL
Movie: The Parent Trap
Lindsay Lohan plays the Hayley Mills part — make that parts — in this 1998 remake of the 1961 family classic. Twins separated as babies meet at camp and decide to switch places in an effort to get their long-divorced parents (Dennis Quaid, Natasha Richardson) back together. But the clock is ticking: Dad is about to marry a thoroughly unlikeable woman (Elaine Hendrix). Lisa Ann Walter also stars.

Friday
3 p.m. on AMC
Movie: Two Mules for Sister Sara
In one of the more odd pairings in a Western, Clint Eastwood hooks up with Shirley MacLaine in this 1970 comedy endeavor directed by Don Siegel. Eastwood stars as Hogan, a wanderer who stumbles upon a nun (MacLaine) being held prisoner. He aids in her escape, but instead of walking away, he helps her complete her mission.

Saturday
3 p.m. on FAM
Movie: Ice Angel
This comedy-drama stars Nicholle Tom as Sarah, a 17-year-old figure skater, whose comatose body becomes inhabited by the spirit of Matt, a hockey player (Aaron Smolinski) killed in his prime by a wayward puck. Curiously, both the host and the inhabitant have the same dream, to reach the Olympics and achieve their ultimate goal. Tara Lipinski, Alan Thicke, Thomas Calabro, Nancy Kerrigan and Elvis Stojko also star.

Sunday Best Bets

2 p.m. on 8-FOX on 25-FOX

NFL Football

The conference championship games are contested beginning on Fox with the NFC. The network's top team of Joe Buck, Troy Aikman and Cris Collinsworth calls the action. Then CBS takes over with the voices of Jim Nantz and Phil Simms describing all the goings-on in the AFC championship. At the conclusion of the NFL's second-biggest day of the year, the hype machine gets cranked up for its biggest Super Bowl XXXIX on Feb. 6 in Jacksonville, Fla.

7 p.m. on 38-WB

Charmed

In the new episode "Extreme Makeover: World Edition," B r o d y (Kerr)

Smith) has his doubts about the Avatars' plans to transform the world into a Utopia, especially when they claim the human race must be put to sleep first. While seeking guidance from the Elders, he's abducted by Zankou (Oded Fehr) and agrees to put a paranoia spell on the Charmed Ones (Holly Marie Combs, Alyssa Milano, Rose McGowan) to trap an Avatar.

7 p.m. on 49-PAX
Young Blades

Wannabe swashbucklers hone their skills at a 17th-century academy in this new series, a sort of "Three Musketeers: The Next Generation" with a dash of Harry Potter. Bruce Boxleitner stars as Capt. Duval, head of the school and mentor to a young D'Artagnan (Tobias Mehler) and friends. In the premiere, "Wanted," a girl (Karen Cliche) poses as a boy to become a Musketeer and save her brother from the evil Mazarin (Michael Ironside).

8 p.m. on 6-NBC

Movie: Bridget Jones's Diary

Renee Zellweger scored a hit in this 2001 film version of Helen Fielding's best seller about a woman and her two loves. One (Hugh Grant) is a seemingly ideal fellow who's more than a bit of a rogue, while the other (Colin Firth) appears less likely to have the inside track on Bridget's affections. Gemma Jones and Celia Imrie also star.

8 p.m. on 19-PBS

Masterpiece Theatre

The new five-part drama "Island at War" is set during World War II on the Channel Islands, the only part of the British Empire to be occupied by the Germans. It focuses on the effects of the war on three fictional families, including that of a high-ranking politician (James Wilby) on the also-fictional island of St. Gregory. Clare Holman and Philip Glenister also star.

9 p.m. on 4-CBS

NUMB3RS

Rob Morrow ("Northern Exposure") stars in this new crime drama series as an FBI agent who calls upon his brother (David Krumholtz, "The Santa Clause 2"), a math whiz, to help him solve crimes when the evidence doesn't add up. The show is a brother act behind the scenes, too. Filmmaker Ridley Scott and his Emmy-winning younger sibling, Tony ("The Gathering Storm"), are executive producers.

7th Heaven

Lucy (Beverly Mitchell) defies doctor's orders and persuades Matt (Barry Watson) to take her shopping because the family hasn't gotten her anything for the baby. What she doesn't know is that Eric and Annie (Stephen Collins; Catherine Hicks) are planning a baby shower for that very day, but she's likely to miss it, as she goes into labor while stuck in an elevator with Matt. George Stults also stars in the new episode "Paper or Plastic."

8 p.m. on 4-CBS

Everybody Loves Raymond

In "The Home," Marie (Doris Roberts) announces that she and Frank (Peter Boyle) have decided to move out of state and sell the house to Robert and Amy (Brad Garrett; Monica Horan). They're thrilled to get it, of course, and Ray and Debra (Ray Romano; Patricia Richardson) are also excited at the prospect of no longer having the elder Raymonds too close for comfort. When the time comes, though, all four admit missing the old folks.

8 p.m. on 38-WB

Everwood

Nina (Stephanie Niznik) offers Jake (Scott Wolf) moral support when his Los Angeles girlfriend (guest star Jessica Collins) pays an unexpected visit to Everwood. Amy's (Emily VanCamp) interest in a tough ballet program has Harold and Rose (Tom Amandes; Merri-Ann Gann) worried. Andy (Treat Williams) inadvertently humiliates Della (Vivien Cardone) in front of the hockey team. Gregory Smith also

8:30 p.m. on 4-CBS

Two and a Half Men

Charlie (Charlie Sheen) gets an unsettling look at his romantic behavior when he falls for a woman (guest star Jen Ryan, "Star Trek: Voyager") as emotionally elusive as he is in "Bad News From the Clinic." After a date, she pushes him out of her house before he's ready to leave — a pattern that continues, leaving the tables turned on Charlie.

9 p.m. on 6-NBC

Medium

Allison (Patricia Arquette) overhears a witness giving false information about a murder suspect and tries to convince DeValos (Miguel Sandoval) that the authorities are following the wrong lead. A recurring dream about being chased by a wolf gives her the key to saving herself when the real killer materializes. Little Bridgette (Maria Lark) shows signs of having inherited her mother's power in the new episode "Night of the Wolf."

What she doesn't know is that Eric and Annie (Stephen Collins; Catherine Hicks) are planning a baby shower for that very day, but she's likely to miss it, as she goes into labor while stuck in an elevator with Matt. George Stults also stars in the new episode "Paper or Plastic."

8 p.m. on 4-CBS

Everybody Loves Raymond

In "The Home," Marie (Doris Roberts) announces that she and Frank (Peter Boyle) have decided to move out of state and sell the house to Robert and Amy (Brad Garrett; Monica Horan). They're thrilled to get it, of course, and Ray and Debra (Ray Romano; Patricia Richardson) are also excited at the prospect of no longer having the elder Raymonds too close for comfort. When the time comes, though, all four admit missing the old folks.

8 p.m. on 38-WB

Tuesday Best Bets

7 p.m. on 26-ABC on 13-ABC My Wife and Kids

In the new episode "Study Buddy," Michael (Damon Wayans) offers to tutor Jay (Tisha Campbell-Martin) so they can spend more time together while she prepares for a big exam. Unfortunately, his efforts backfire and she flunks the test. Michael tries to make things better by bribing the instructor to let Jay take the exam again. David Leisner — the artist formerly known as Joe Isuzu — guest stars as the professor.

7 p.m. on 38-WB Gilmore Girls

Christopher (David Sutcliffe) visits Yale to patch things up with Rory (Alexis Bledel), but she brushes him off. Lorelai (Lauren Graham) fails to tell Luke (Scott Patterson) where she's been after spending an evening paying a condolence call. A lost dog brings Richard and Kelly (Edward Herrmann, Kelly Bishop) back together for a short time. Things get a little PG-13 at a historical re-enactment in the new episode "Women of Questionable Morals."

7 p.m. on 6-NBC The Most Outrageous Moments on Live TV 2

The good thing about live television is that you're watching events as they happen. The downside is that, well, things happen. This special offers some of the funniest, foulest that ever occurred live on the air during sporting events, newscasts, game shows and other broadcasts where all involved were working without a net. It includes clips of former President Bill Clinton and former New York Mayor Rudy Giuliani.

8 p.m. on 26-ABC on 13-ABC

According to Jim

While dining out with Cheryl (Courtney Thorne-Smith), Jim (Jim Belushi) pretends to be jealous of her and their waiter in an effort to make her feel wanted. It works so well that he advises Dana's (Kimberly Williams-Paisley) date to do the same. Dana's reaction, however, is quite different from Cheryl's: she thinks the guy is a paranoid control freak. Larry Joe Campbell also stars in the new episode "The Jealous Husband."

8 p.m. on 38-WB

One Tree Hill

A visit from Haley's (Bethany Joy Lenz) older sister (guest star Lindsey McKeon) comes as a surprise to Haley, but a shock to Nathan (James Lafferty), who has a history of sorts with her. Peyton (Hilarie Burton) also gets a surprise visitor: Jake (Bryan Greenberg). Brooke and Felix (Sophia Bush, Michael Copon) decide to become a couple. Chad Michael Murray also stars in the new episode "The Heart Brings You Back."

8 p.m. on 6-NBC

Scrubs

Colin Farrell ("Alexander") makes his U.S. television debut in the new episode "My Lucky Charm" as an upbeat Irishman who gives Turk and J.D. (Donald Faison, Zach Braff) a lesson in living when he's brought in for injuries suffered in a bar fight. Dr. C.O.B. (John C. McGinley) is surprised by Jordan's (Christa Miller) reaction to the news that he's had a vasectomy.

8 p.m. on 54-UPN

Veronica Mars

A classmate (guest star Bobby Edner) gets help from Veronica and Wallace (Kristen Bell, Percy Daggs III) in seeking his long-missing father in "Meet John Smith." A guidance counselor (guest star Paula Marshall, "Hidden Hills") seeks Keith's (Enrico Colanton) input on Veronica. Duncan (Teddy Dunn) has a difficult time as the anniversary of his sister's murder nears.

9 p.m. on 4-CBS

Judging Amy

In the new episode "10,000 Steps," Vincent's (Dan Futterman) gift for writing comes in handy in his new gig working with teenage runaways. He helps a boy polish an essay about himself so he can get into a halfway house, a move that raises his stock considerably in Crystal's (Jennifer Esposito) eyes. Amy and David (Amy Brenneman, Adrian Pasdar) decide to get married.

In Focus

At this point, how are you going to keep Nicole Richie (left) and Paris Hilton on the farm ... or in the mansion? You aren't, as illustrated by the debut of the unscripted Fox show "The Simple Life: Interns" Wednesday, Jan. 26.

This time, the privileged duo travels around the United States by bus, joined by passengers while tackling odd jobs at various ports of call. The ladies' temporary occupations take them into the world of high finance and politics but also into blue-collar occupations.

The big question is exactly when the big lip-synch debacle on "Saturday Night Live" will be shown as Ashlee Simpson begins season two of the "Ashlee Simpson Show" Wednesday, Jan. 26, on MTV.

In fairness, the novice singer's tune "Pieces of Me," which the show's first year showed her trying to launch - did well on the music charts. However, it was the "SNL" situation - and the subsequent acid-reflux explanation - that elevated Simpson from music-star wannabe to household name.

Cuba Gooding Jr.
7 p.m. on 26-ABC on 13-ABC
Movie: Snow Dogs
Baby, it's cold outside! Cuba Gooding Jr. stars as Ted Brooks, a dentist who inherits a team of sled dogs. But he's from Miami, and the pooches like it chilly. The good dentist has to learn how to drive the team so he can win an important race; otherwise, he loses his canine colleagues to a rival. James Coburn, Sisqo, Nichelle Nichols and Graham Greene co-star in this 2002 family flick.

7 p.m. on 6-NBC
Law & Order
Two police officers are killed while staging a sting on a black-market firearms operation in "Gunplay." Green (Jesse L. Martin) goes under cover to identify the murderers; he and Fontana (Dennis Farina) then trace the crimes to a Web site funded by a district attorney with a personal grudge against cops. He claims First Amendment rights as the prosecutors move in on him.

7 p.m. and AMC
Movie: Pet Sematary
Author Stephen King wrote the screenplay — his first adaptation of one of his novels — for this 1989 thriller. A young family's new home is located near an ancient American Indian burial ground that is said to hold the power to bring back the dead. That legend is tested when the family pet is run over on a busy highway and returns in not-so-friendly form. Dale Midkiff, Fred Gwynne and Denise Crosby star.

7 p.m. on HBO
Movie: Secret Window
Novelist Mort Rainey (Johnny Depp) is having a rough time. As if the end of his marriage and a case of writer's block weren't enough, he's approached by a scary stranger (John Turturro) who accuses him of plagiarizing his work. Mort has three days to clear himself — or else. Maria Bello, Charles S. Dutton, Leni Carliou and Timothy Hutton also star in this 2004 thriller based on a novella by Stephen King.

8 p.m. on 6-NBC
Law & Order: Criminal Intent
A female immigrant's fatal slashing appears self-inflicted at first, but her husband's (guest star Thomas G. Waites) violent behavior leads Goren and Bishop (Vincent D'Onofrio, Samantha Buck) to think otherwise in "A Murderer Among Us." Convicting the husband of his spouse's death would prove tricky, so the police detectives probe his history in a bid to implicate him in other murders.
